Review of Electric Utility Hurricane Preparedness and Restoration Actions

Docket No. 20170215-EU

Filed: December 15, 2017

ORLANDO UTILITIES COMMISSION RESPONSES TO STAFF'S FIRST DATA REQUEST

The Orlando Utilities Commission (OUC), by and through its undersigned counsel, provides the following responses to Staff's First Data Request.

Staff Question 1.

Please describe the pre-storm coordination process for Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate. The description should include:

- a. Dates and topics of internal meetings held after each storm was named.
- b. Dates and topics of external communication pertaining to mutual aid held after each storm was named.
- c. Date mutual aid was requested and nature of request.

OUC Response:

In any storm, OUC follows the National Incident Management System (NIMS) structure. The Incident Commander performs all major ICS command and staff responsibilities. Exhibit 1.1 shows the OUC Incident Command Structure. OUC initiates the different phases of storm activation based on the following Activation Levels:

Level III - Threat possible to OUC General day-to-day operations continues. The threat is identified and a heightened state of awareness is observed as the threat continues.

Level II - Pre-emergency Period (Threat possible within 72 hours) - The Emergency Plan may partially be activated at the discretion of the Incident Commander depending on the decision to bring in additional resources.

Level I - Imminent Danger (Threat possible within 12 -36 hours) - This is full activation of the Emergency Plan. The operation is carried out for 24 hours and operational periods are established.

In all storms, upon declaring Activation Level III, the Incident Commander holds a series of Incident Command Planning and Section Chief Meetings to ensure that preparations were coordinated across the Commission. During Pre-Storm Meetings, The Incident Commander briefs Section Chiefs on the current plan for Incident Command Activation and details of the hurricane's strength, speed and path based on then available weather data. Section Chiefs representing Planning, Logistics, Finance/Administration, Liaison Office, Safety and Public Information provide the Incident Commander with updates on their preparation, recently completed tasks and next steps. As the storm progresses, this process is repeated one or more times each day as deemed appropriate by the Incident Commander.

a. Dates and topics of internal meetings held after each storm was named.

(i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Hermine.

(ii) Hurricane Matthew.

Staff Question 2.

Please provide a detailed description of the utility's allocation of storm duties for all personnel. This should include a description of each function and the number of utility personnel assigned.

OUC Response:

OUC utilizes the National Incident Management System (NIMS), and has organized its personnel into functional groups that align with the Incident Command System (ICS). Exhibit 2 attached hereto shows the allocation of OUC personnel and their duties within the NIMS reporting structure.

Staff Question 3.

When did the costs for Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate begin to accrue for receiving mutual aid?

OUC Response:

OUC generally begins to accrue storm costs once the Incident Commander declares activation Level 2. OUC uses a combination of internal contract resources, pre-negotiated mutual aid agreement and outside vendors to meet its needs for services, supplemental labor and supplies. OUC pre-negotiates a set of storm contracts and updates those on an annual basis before the storm season. As a last resort, OUC makes calls to extended vendor networks to obtain supplemental assistance as needed. Generally speaking, both mutual aid and third party vendors begin to charge OUC from the time the providing entity's equipment and personnel are deployed to assist until they return to their home base or are released to another utility in need.

(i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Hermine.

(ii) Hurricane Matthew. OUC began accruing storm costs for Hurricane Matthew on or about Tuesday, September 5, 2016, as reported to FEMA.

(iii) Hurricane Irma. OUC began accruing storm costs for Hurricane Irma on or about Tuesday October 4, 2017, as reported to FEMA.

(iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Maria.

(v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 4.

Please provide a detailed overview of the initial damage assessment process for Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate, including the number of utility employees or contractors involved, their duties, and how initial damage assessment is disseminated within the utility to assist in restoration activities. Additionally, please provide photographs or other visual media that memorializes storm damage, which was documented during the initial damage assessment process.

OUC Response:

- (i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Hermine.
- (ii) Hurricane Matthew

Status of electric and water facilities was tracked during the storm via EMS/SCADA, Outage Management Systems and other monitoring systems, customer and employee reports and AMI metering. OUC electric generating facilities, electric transmission/substation facilities, water plants, chilled water plants, administrative buildings, etc. are inspected by specifically assigned employees who normally work in those areas and who have the requisite knowledge. Some of the more critical facilities had personnel assigned to remain on-site during the storm.

As the storm impacts our service territory, making it unsafe to remain in the field, electronic systems are gathering the outage data. Once a determination is made that it is safe to travel, assessment of facilities begins. OUC utilizes the industry standard of wind speeds below 35 mph sustained winds as safe to deploy restoration crews. For the electric distribution system, Safety Inspection Teams are assigned either at a substation or circuit level. Feeder Restoration also begins as soon as it is safe to travel. Safety Inspection and Feeder Restoration are occurring simultaneously and independently. During Hurricane Matthew, OUC initially had 17 two-person safety inspection teams. Each two-person team consists of a driver and an assessor in a single vehicle. These teams consisted of OUC employees, the majority of which were electric distribution engineers.

Each Safety Inspection team inspects their assigned circuits. Damage information is recorded in the software program ARM360. The program has the OUC electric GIS map and asset information in it. Periodically, each team is required to upload their information. The damage information is then available to the Planning Section personnel in the Emergency Operations Center. The Planning Section uses the damage information to assist in making resource decisions and estimated times of restoration, (ETR).

Physical damage to the OUC electric distribution system was not very heavy from Hurricane Matthew. There was not a need to perform safety inspection on the entire system as the restoration effort was quickly transitioned from Feeder Restoration to Lateral Restoration.

- (iii) Hurricane Irma

Status of electric and water facilities was tracked during the storm via EMS/SCADA, Outage Management Systems and other monitoring systems, customer and employee reports and AMI metering. OUC electric generating facilities, electric transmission/substation facilities, water plants, chilled water plants, administrative buildings, etc. are inspected by specifically assigned employees who normally work in those areas and who have the requisite knowledge. For the electric distribution system, Safety Inspection Teams are assigned either at a substation or circuit level. Feeder Restoration also begins as soon as it is safe to travel. Safety Inspection and Feeder Restoration are occurring simultaneously and independently. During Hurricane Irma, OUC had 24 internal and 28 external contractor two-person safety inspection teams. Each two-person team consists of a driver and an assessor in a single vehicle.

Each Safety Inspection team inspects their assigned circuits. Damage information is recorded in the software program ARM360. The program has the OUC electric GIS map and asset information in it. Periodically, each team is required to upload their information. The damage information is then available to the Planning Section personnel in the Emergency Operations Center and to anyone who has access to ARM360. The Planning Section uses the ARM360 damage information to assist in making resource decisions and estimated times of restoration.

The entire OUC electric distribution system was inspected in approximately 36 hours. Complete assessment results can be provided.

- (iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Maria.
- (v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 5.

Please provide a description of how damage assessment data is updated and communicated internally.

OUC Response:

OUC utilizes a system called ARM360 for the collection of damage information. ARM360 is a Geographical Information System (GIS) based data collection system that utilizes mobile electronic devices for the collection of information. As safety inspection teams collect data, they periodically access Wi-Fi at our substations to upload the information. This information is then available across the enterprise for viewing and updating.

Staff Question 6.

Please provide a detailed description of how the utility determines when and where to start restoration efforts.

OUC Response:

The OUC Emergency Response Plan attached hereto as Exhibit 3 and addresses restoration stages and priorities of restoration. There are two basic types of priority to consider. One is facilities and one is customers.

For electric system facilities, the order of priority is generally generation, transmission, substation and distribution. Generation being the most important because you can serve no customers without sufficient generation. Transmission and substations impact large numbers of customers and areas, therefore they are generally more important than individual circuits. In all hurricanes dating back to and including 2004, OUC did not lose generation, transmission or substation facilities that caused a retail customer outage.

For the electric distribution system, the OUC plan includes multiple stages of restoration for a large event. The first phase is Feeder Restoration and it is performed and managed based on a Customer Priority level which is assigned to every feeder. The most critical customer facilities are Hospitals with a feeder priority level of 1. There are a total of eight levels of customer priority.

Staff Question 7.

For Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate, please complete the following table on workload priority:

Personnel Responsible for Restoration Workload Assignments
Title	Years of experience	Number of crews managed

OUC Response:

- (i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Hermine.
- (ii) Hurricane Matthew.

Personnel Responsible for Restoration Workload Assignments Matthew
Title	Years of Experience	Number of Crews Managed*
Director – Distribution Construction & Maintenance	29	Co-managed 663
Manager – Distribution Construction & Maintenance	21	Co-managed 663
Construction Coordinator	36	Co-managed 663

* Crews were co-managed by the personnel listed in column 1 rather than being split among the three.

- (iii) Hurricane Irma.

Personnel Responsible for Restoration Workload Assignments Irma
Title	Years of Experience	Number of Crews Managed*
Director – Distribution Construction & Maintenance	29	Co-managed 737
Manager – Distribution Construction & Maintenance	22	Co-managed 737
Manager – Distribution Construction & Maintenance	21	Co-managed 737
Construction Coordinator	36	Co-managed 737

* Crews were co-managed by the personnel listed in column 1 rather than being split among the three.

- (iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Maria.
- (v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 8.

Please provide a description of how restoration workload adjusts based on work completed and updates to damage assessments.

OUC Response:

The OUC incident response plan has a goal of completing damage assessment within a 48 hour window. During this time period, crews are primarily focused on feeder restoration activities, and facilities that have more than minor damage are not being addressed. This allows the Planning Section to develop an overall restoration plan that incorporates all known damage and does not require updates for additional damage. The restoration workload is adjusted in the overnight hours based on the progress achieved during the day light work period. The Planning Section provides guidance to the Operations Section on where crews should be assigned during the next operational period in order to meet established estimated times of restoration.

Staff Question 9.

If applicable, please describe how mutual aid was determined to be no longer needed following Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

In all storms, the Planning Section in the Incident Command Structure is responsible for tracking the status of all resources and restoration activities. The Planning Section develops the daily plan and makes estimates of resource needs and when all customers will be restored. The decision of when, who and how to release resources was made by the Command Group based on Planning Section forecasts of when OUC would have more resources than necessary to effect restoration and post-restoration activities.

Staff Question 13.

Please provide how call center customer service representatives were utilized before, during and after Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

On all storms, Customer Service Representatives (CSR) in the contact center are used in the same consistent manner:

Before the storm – Regular call center activities continue until such time staff must be sent home. Select CSRs contact medical alert customers and those customers who have pending field activities related to service requests since their service or request may be impacted by the storm.

During the storm – A team of CSRs, usually made up of 6 to 8 individuals, ride out the storm and remain available to respond to customer calls and emails. Appropriate contact details are recorded in our PragmaWeb system.

After the storm – Ride out CSRs continue to handle customer contacts via phone and email until relief CSRs are able to come in. Shifts continue to rotate providing 24/7 coverage until customer demand reduces and then contact center staff is reduced. Appropriate contact details are recorded in our PragmaWeb system.

Staff Question 14.

Please provide the number of customer service representatives the Utility had during Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

- a. Were there additional personnel deployed or 3rd party entities utilized to help address customer contacts during each named storm event? If so, how many?

OUC Response:

During all storms, OUC utilizes employees from other departments within Customer Service as necessary to provide maximum coverage (phone agents, e-mail and social media responders). In more recent years, OUC has added additional staff to monitor and respond to the ever increasing forms of communications through social media as the trend continues to move towards customer communication via mobile devices.

- (i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Hermine.
- (ii) Hurricane Matthew. Number of Customer Services Representatives over the storm period: 78
- (iii) Hurricane Irma. Number of Customer Services Representatives over the storm period: 197
- (iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Maria.
- (v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not activate its full NIMS response for Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 15.

Please provide the number of customer contacts received by the customer call center(s) during Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

Staff Question 16.

Please provide all methods (call centers, email, Utility website, etc.) utilized to submit and collect customer contacts before, during, and after Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

OUC utilizes many different forms of communication to collect and disseminate information to customers, emergency managers, and elected officials during storms. The following are the primary methods used:

- Utility Websites (www.ouc.com and online outage map)
- Interactive Voice Response (IVR) system
- Social Media Engagements and Private Messages
- Customer Service Representative calls and emails
- Key Account Representative calls and emails
- Emergency Operations Center representatives in neighboring cities and counties

Staff Question 17.

Please describe the step by step process(es) by which customer contacts are addressed before, during, and after a named storm event. If different during each timeframe, please describe the step by step process during each separately.

OUC Response:

OUC is available to customers through every stage of a hurricane. However, OUC does change the options and information available to customers during different phases of the storm to ensure that customer contacts across channels provide accurate and timely information.

Before the Storm:

OUC operates normally before the storm although some systems are placed into “storm mode” to stop remote disconnects for non-payment. All communication channels and representatives provide storm safety messages and information to help customers understand how OUC will operate during and after the storm.

During the Storm:

Once the Incident Command has made the call to move into “storm mode,” self-service via the web and IVR are blocked with the exception of reporting outages. ETRs are removed from the outage map and messaging across all channels informs customers that OUC has limited customer service while the storm is moving through the service territory and explains that crews will not be in the field while winds are high.

After the Storm – Feeder Restoration:

Customers are informed that we are assessing damage in an effort to provide ETRs. All channels accept outage and water problem reports and provide storm safety information about downed lines, generators, etc. Customers are encouraged to verify if an outage is due to damage to their equipment and, if so, they are told to contact a licensed contractor to make the repair and secure permitting from the city or county. OUC provides a list of contractors at ouc.com/pcn. Once the system-wide ETR is established, it is communicated across all channels.

After the Storm – Lateral Restoration:

Customers are provided individual ETRs and updates through all channels. When possible, meters are pinged so representatives can inform customers when the issue is due to equipment damage at their home or business.

Restoration – Transition to Normal:

OUC transitions all systems back to normal and transacting with customers for payments, service requests, etc. Any remaining outages are handled on an individual basis.

- a. Did the Utility identify any delays in restoration as a result of addressing customer contacts related to Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate? If so, please provide detail.

OUC Response:

OUC did no experience any restoration delays stemming from addressing customer contacts during the storm

Staff Question 18.

Please provide whether or not customer contacts are categorized (by concern, complaint, information request, etc.) If so, how are they categorized? If not, why not?

OUC Response:

See the OUC Emergency Response Plan attached as Exhibit 3. If a hurricane causes large-scale power outages and therefore an increase in customer contacts, OUC immediately launches an established restoration response plan that is communicated to customers. OUC will:

- 1) Evaluate damage to our electric system.
- 2) Begin restoring power to critical areas like hospitals, police/fire stations, and other emergency facilities.
- 3) Work from the substation out bringing back feeder lines in order to restore service to the largest number of customers as possible.
- 4) Repair damage to laterals that often affect only a few individual customers at each location.
- 5) Restore power to homes with damaged service lines once the needed repair work is performed by an electrician and an inspection has been conducted by the appropriate City/County.

Contacts are categorized as they fit into this process, meaning that critical facilities are escalated and handled appropriately as well as other hazardous conditions that are reported.

Staff Question 19.

Please provide a detailed description of how customer service representatives are informed of restoration progress.

- a. Is there a script provided to each customer service representative to relay restoration progress to customers? If so, what is the process by which the script is created?

OUC Response:

Customer Service Representatives are kept informed of the restoration process through notes and talking points provided to them by the Communications team in the PIO group. High-level talking points are provided for the pre-, during- and after- storm activities, which include standard information on what OUC is doing to prepare, what customers should do to prepare, and when OUC crews will or will not be in the field, etc.

Once the storm has passed, Customer Service Representatives are given talking points to help explain the assessment phase of restoration and manage customers' expectations on when ETRs will be provided. This information includes the number of outages, how OUC's restores power, equipment damage and post-storm safety.

These scripts and updates are developed by the Communications lead, typically after the Section Chiefs meetings when the PIO debriefs the full Communications team and outlines key messages and issues to address in the next phase of the restoration. At any time, when new or important information is shared, the Communications lead writes a general statement that is then sent to channel leads to modify as appropriate for their needs and sent out simultaneously.

Representatives also have access to systems with near real-time information including the online outage map and Pragma Call used to help customers with individual information.

Staff Question 20.

Please describe the process the Utility uses to notify customers of approximate restoration times. The response should include at a minimum:

a. How restoration time estimates were determined.

OUC Response:

The Planning Section utilizes system status and damage assessment information to estimate total electric crew and tree crew resource needs. Based on current and proposed resource availability as well as the safety inspection summary data, a system-wide estimated time of restoration ("ETR") is forecast. A Daily Plan is then developed to perform all necessary restoration activities to meet the system-wide ETR. ETRs are established for every circuit and all customers on that circuit. At the appropriate time during the restoration process, the outage management system ("OMS") is populated with the individual ETRs for access by and communication to customers.

b. How customers are notified.

OUC Response:

Customer are notified of restoration times through multiple channels including: www.ouc.com, the online outage map, an upfront message on the IVR, social media posts, news media updates, outbound calls, representative calls and email. Representatives at the local and state level EOCs also provide restoration information. OUC also provides daily ETR and other information to key stakeholders, such as the Mayor and City Commissioners, and County Commissioners, and they also help to communicate ETRs to their constituents.

See Response to Question 16 for detailed discussion on methods of communication used by OUC.

c. How restoration time estimates are updated.

OUC Response:

The restoration time estimates (ETR) are updated on a daily basis as part of the Daily Plan of Action prepared by the Planning Section.

- d. How restoration time estimates are disseminated internally, to the county and state Emergency Operations Centers, and to the public.

OUC Response:

Once the Planning section provides the system-wide ETR during the Section Chief meetings, the PIO office drafts key talking points and pushes out updates to all channel leads as outlined above. This includes updating the websites and IVR, providing details to customer service and the representatives working in City/County and State Emergency Operation Centers, sending a media release, posting to social media channels and emailing key stakeholders.

As daily ETRs and individual ETRs are provided, all channels are updated and customers are encouraged to use the outage map, IVR or call representatives for individual ETRs.

When Planning reports that an ETR to specific area will be missed, customers are proactively messaged through targeted social media and outbound calls that include the reason for the delay and a new ETR. Additionally, the City or County Commissioner of that area is called and informed of the new time and cause of delay directly by the PIO.

Staff Question 21.

Regarding Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate, please provide a description of how vehicle fuel was procured for Utility personnel and mutual aid partners. As part of the response, please answer the following:

OUC Response:

OUC procured all fuel from pre-storm fuel suppliers under contract with OUC. In addition, OUC uses local vendors to fuel some offsite generators both during and after storms.

- a. Whether or not the Utility has fuel stored for these types of events

OUC Response:

OUC has the ability to store 43,000 gallons of diesel and 31,000 gallons of gasoline. OUC also owns two 9,200 gallon fuel tankers. Prior to a hurricane, OUC will top off all generators, vehicles, and equipment and then top off all storage tanks and tankers.

- b. Whether or not fuel shortage was an issue during these events

OUC Response:

OUC did not experience any fuel shortages during the events listed.

- c. Whether or not there were any delays due to fuel shortage

OUC Response:

OUC did not experience any delays related to fuel.

d. Whether or not there were enough vehicles available during these events/any issues mobilizing crews

OUC Response:

OUC had had sufficient vehicles for field work but did rent buses and multi passenger vans for foreign crew transportation to and from hotels and staging areas

Staff Question 22.

Please detail any complications or delays such as shortage or delayed delivery of materials for Hurricanes Hermine, Matthew, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

Staff Question 24.

Please explain how the Utility validates adherences and departures from its storm preparation plan.

OUC Response:

OUC utilizes the NIMS Incident Command Structure to respond to man-made and natural disasters. For a complete discussion of the NIMS structure used by OUC, see response to Question 1. The NIMS structure allows OUC to evaluate and respond to incidents of any kind or size in a consistent and methodical way. It allows personnel to assume a common management structure during the emergency while providing logistical and administrative support to operational staff.

During most hurricanes, OUC utilizes a 12 or 16 hour operational period during the day and 8 – 12 hour period during the night. The NIMS command staff hold meetings at the end of each operational period to address the changing conditions encountered and ensure the personnel working remain on task and deployed in the most efficient way.

The Planning Section Chief creates a list of priorities and tasks at the beginning of each operational period. This list is reviewed at the end of each period and adjusted for each planning period accordingly to address any new or changing incident.

Staff Question 26.

Please identify all counties, including reporting regions/division for each county if applicable, that were impacted (had outages or damage) due to Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

(i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Hermine.

(ii) Hurricane Matthew.

OUC experienced damage in Osceola County, Orange County, and Brevard County. In Brevard County, OUC does not provide electric distribution services; therefore, the only damage OUC reported was related to OUC owned generation and distribution facilities located in Brevard County.

(iii) Hurricane Irma.

OUC experienced damage in Osceola County, Orange County, and Brevard County. In Brevard County, OUC does not provide electric distribution services; therefore, the only damage OUC reported was related to OUC owned generation and distribution facilities located in Brevard County.

- (iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Maria.
- (v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 27.

Please complete the table below summarizing the wind speed and flooding impacts by county in the utility's service area. If the requested information is not available by county, please provide the information on a system basis. Please provide this information for Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

Weather Impact IRMA
County	Maximum Sustained Winds (MPH)	Maximum Gusts (MPH)	Maximum Rainfall (inches)	Maximum Storm Surge (Feet)

OUC Response:

OUC does not collect data on wind speed. OUC utilizes third party services to gather weather data generally, including wind speed, rainfall, and storm path. Services used by OUC include:

- a. University of South Alabama – Coastal Weather Research Center
- b. Local News Meteorologist
- c. NOAA/ National Hurricane Center

OUC has not experienced flooding within its system caused by these storms.

Staff Question 28.

Please provide a county map or graphic indicating the geographic locations where the Utility's infrastructure was storm hardened after 2006. For purposes of this question, do not include vegetation management.

OUC Response:

OUC has employed 'storm hardening' engineering design principles for at least 30 years in the design of its electric transmission, substation and distribution systems. All OUC facilities are designed to meet the applicable NESC extreme wind loading characteristics for our geographical areas. OUC has proactively advanced undergrounding of facilities and the portions of OUC's system within the City of Orlando are more than 64% underground. OUC has proactively used steel and concrete poles for new installations and replacements in truck accessible areas as the standard design. All major hospitals in the City of Orlando portions of the OUC service area are served by all underground distribution circuits.

Staff Question 29.

Please complete the table below summarizing hardened facilities that required repair or replacement as a result of Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

Staff Question 31.

For Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate, please provide a ranking of the five highest volume of outage causation that impacted the Utility's service area.

OUC Response:

During all hurricanes, the cause code entered into the Outage Management System for all outage incidents is "Storm", therefore, there is no data available for a statistical analysis of outage causation.

However, anecdotally, the top cause by far is trees & tree limbs causing circuit faults and impacting conductors and poles.

Staff Question 32.

For Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate, please provide a ranking of the top five drivers that protracted service restoration time.

OUC Response to Questions 32:

OUC has not experienced protracted restoration times for the storms. For Hurricane's Matthew and Irma, OUC's restoration time tends to be most impacted by the following:

- a. Removal of downed trees within roadways
- b. Limited access to rear lot line structures
- c. Customer side systems needing repair and permitting before power can be restored
- d. Due to the path of the storms (Irma), competition for in-state and out-of-state distribution crews

Staff Question 33.

If applicable, please describe any damage prevented by flood monitors during Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

N/A

Staff Question 34.

How many outages were avoided by automated feeder switches during Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate? Please explain how the data for each event was collected.

OUC Response to Questions 34:

None.

Staff Question 35.

Please complete the table below for all critical infrastructure facilities (CIFs), by location (city/county) and facility type, which lost power, the restoration time for the CIFs and the cause of the outage (such as wind, storm-surge, flooding, debris, etc.) and facilities structure type that required replacement and/or repair. Please provide this information for Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate.

OUC Response:

OUC has a list of restoration priorities discussed in the OUC Emergency Response Plan. For purposes of this response, OUC assumed CIF's to be Hospitals within OUC's electric service territory. CIF's were impacted as follows:

Florida Hospital, Orange, did not lose power
Orlando Regional Health System, Orange, did not lose power
Veterans Administration Hospital, Orange, did not lose power
Nemours Children's Hospital, Orange, did not lose power
St. Cloud Hospital, Osceola, less than 24 hours, overhead distribution feeder lockout, minor tree damage

Staff Question 36.

Please provide an assessment of the performance of underground facilities during Hurricanes Matthew, Hermine, Irma, Maria, and Nate. As part of this assessment please summarize the number of underground facilities that required repair or replacement for each event.

OUC Response:

In general, underground facilities tend to perform well during hurricanes as they are only occasionally impacted by our primary source of outages – trees. There are a few instances where falling trees will strike underground equipment or have roots that pull up underground conductors when the tree falls over. Water intrusion can also be an issue for some pad mounted equipment.

(i) Hurricane Hermine. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Hermine.

(ii) Hurricane Matthew.

Outage data for Matthew did not distinguish between overhead and underground facilities. Therefore, statistical data for Matthew is not available regarding underground related outages.

(iii) Hurricane Irma.

During Irma, there were some underground related outages in the OUC system. The outages included nine failed underground primary voltage conductors and fifteen failed pad mounted transformers.

(iv) Hurricane Maria. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Maria.

(v) Hurricane Nate. OUC did not have hurricane damage during Hurricane Nate.

Staff Question 37.

Please provide a discussion what programs/tariffs the utility has in place to promote

a. Undergrounding of new construction (e.g., subdivisions)

b.

OUC Response:

- i. All new residential subdivisions are required to install underground electric infrastructure.
- ii. Commercial developments have a choice between overhead and underground systems. However, the majority of commercial developments utilize underground electric facilities due to electric load, density, and other considerations.

c. Conversion of overhead to underground

OUC Response:

Customers who want to convert their overhead electric facilities to underground are charged the differential between an overhead and underground system. OUC is also currently working with a consultant to benchmark overhead to underground conversion costs. In addition, OUC is working with the City of Orlando to determine if there are any existing programs or funding mechanisms to assist with the cost of converting overhead electric distribution systems to underground.

Letter from Ken Ksionek General Manager and CEO, OUC – The Reliable One

We will always remember the hurricane season of 2004. Our years of planning and preparation were put to the test not once, but three times in 45 days. We learned a lot as a result of the storms and since have incorporated those lessons into our hurricane procedures. Above all, those storms reinforced the fact that we must never become complacent.

As we enter another hurricane season, we must realize that our customers will expect us to perform even better than we did in 2004. The bar has been raised even higher. While experience is helpful, preparation is paramount. That is why OUC has taken our hurricane preparedness to the next level, sending all employees through National Incident Management System (NIMS) training. NIMS courses were created by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to provide a consistent nationwide template to enable all government, private sector and non-governmental organizations to work together during domestic incidents. The courses are for people involved with emergency planning, response or recovery efforts.

Even if your current job does not involve you directly in restoration activities, every OUC employee is considered essential and will be called upon to support our goal of restoring power and water to customers as safely and quickly as possible.

Personnel will be re-assigned during major storms and may be involved in a number of activities such as answering customer phone calls or assisting with logistics. That is why it is important for each and every OUC employee to become familiar with our hurricane procedures.

I urge you to review the Emergency Operational Guide and discuss your role with your immediate supervisor. In addition, the OUC web has a special section that can help you develop a personal hurricane plan.

Remember, our success in responding to another major storm or emergency depends on you.

At OUC, we will continue to prepare for the worst – while we hope for the best.

Sincerely,

Ken Ksionek
General Manager & CEO

OUC Emergency Preparedness

Overview

The emergency plan procedure is established to provide a continuing program to prepare for, respond to, and recover from any emergency or disaster and to assure maximum protection, continuity, and recovery of personnel, property, and services.

OUC recognizes the essential role that must be played by all personnel in planning to minimize the effects of any type of disaster, which might strike the Commission's, electric, and water facilities distribution or support systems. Two general types of disasters that could threaten normal operations are Natural Disasters or Manmade Disasters.

Natural Disasters: (Types of natural phenomena)

- Hurricanes
- Severe Thunderstorms/Lightning
- Extreme Cold Weather Conditions
- Tornadoes/High Winds
- Flooding
- Fires
- Sinkholes
- Drought

Man-Made Disasters:

- Terrorist Attacks
- Civil Disorders
- Chemical/Hazardous Material Spills
- Arson
- Vandalism
- Bomb Threats
- Major Fires or Explosions
- Transportation Accidents or Derailments

The most common type of emergency condition encountered in the past has been hurricanes. OUC has been through a number of these conditions and has a standard procedure in place. If the disaster is the result of terrorist action, some advance warning may be received. In the event of terrorist attack, the Commission's contribution of electric power and uncontaminated water supply is essential to survival and to post attack recovery. The effectiveness of this contribution will depend upon any blast damage to the system and the extent of completion of pre-attack preparation.

Employee Expectations

Maximum support to OUC's Divisions is required by both management and employees in times of emergency. Emergency preparedness plans are designed to show employees where and when to report to a pre-assigned station. While OUC is under a level I status an employee may be asked to perform duties different from their normal work load. They may also report to a different person depending on the task assigned.

Because OUC provides an essential public service, the forced closing of its facilities is unlikely. However, as a result of severe weather conditions which may include hazardous driving conditions and other weather-related problems beyond employees' control (e.g., the closing of schools), work attendance maybe affected. In such instances, special procedures will be observed with respect to employee attendance and punctuality. Refer to the Commission's Employee Handbook, Weather Policy.

Employee's Family Shelter

There are no OUC facilities designated as emergency sheltering/housing. Family members should utilize the Red Cross sheltering system. Local jurisdictions may have shelters available for emergency workers and their families even though their areas have not been required to evacuate. This sheltering information will be announced to Commission employees as soon as that information is made available. The other plan is to prepare yourself and your family to evacuate the area or be prepared to remain sheltered in place. These arrangements need to be made in advance of any land falling storms. Hurricane preparedness guides are available to employees through the OUC Web.

Training and Testing

Information meetings and workshops shall be held from time to time for the purpose of familiarizing all employees with the Emergency Plan. Training drills will be conducted as needed.

UNIFIED COMMAND

If a significant event occurs where there is need to work in a unified command structure with other organizations outside of the OUC, the incident command center will be set up to run OUC operations and a joint incident commander will be located at the main Incident command post for the event.

If the event involves large customers, liaison officers will be set up as needed to work with those large customers to assist OUC in restoring power and communicate status as needed.

CONCEPTS OF OPERATION

Typically, day-to-day emergencies do not require the formal Emergency Operation Plan (EOP) activation. They may start from emergency calls originating at the public level and expand to large scale events. When such emergencies do expand and resources are required outside the immediate capabilities or availability, the EOP may become active to support required operations.

The executive policy group is responsible for the overall emergency policy and coordination of the restoration process for OUC customers.

The Incident Commander has the overall responsibility for coordinating and supporting emergency operations for the entire event.

Operational Periods

Operational periods are normally 12 hours in duration. The Incident Commander, based on need may alter these periods. During a Hurricane or some other strong wind storm OUC will operate having two operational periods:

Operational Period 1 - 16 hrs. 5:00am to 9:00pm
Operational Period 2 - 8 hrs. 9:00pm to 5:00am

A part of the operational period is the operational period planning cycle. This cycle denotes the schedule of events (creating the action plan, hold briefings etc.) which will occur in the management of the event.

Activation Level

Only with a decision by the Commission's General Manager\Chief Executive Officer or the established line of succession to this authority will place the EOP in operation for either a Natural Disaster or a National Emergency. These activation levels have been established to prepare for an event.

For

Information - Provide awareness to a general threat; day-to-day operations continues, threat is identified and a heightened state of awareness is observed as the threat continues.

Level III - Threat possible to OUC General day-to-day operations continues. The threat is identified and a heightened state of awareness is observed as the threat continues. The threat is monitored on periodic basis and information is gathered about the threat.

Level II - Pre-emergency Period (Threat possible within 72 hours) The Emergency Plan may partially be activated at the discretion of the CEO depending on the decision to bring in additional resources.

Level I - Imminent Danger (Threat possible within 12 - 36 hours) This is full activation of the Emergency Plan The operation is carried out for 24 hours and operational periods are established.

Incident Phases

A threat or incident is divided into four main phases:

- Preparation Phase
- Operational Phase
- Demobilization Phase
- Recovery Phase

For a major event which could cause widespread damage to the distribution system. The Energy Delivery Business Unit subdivides the operational phase into four periods which triggers various task depending on the period:

Operational Phase

- Main Feeder Restoration Period
- Lateral Restoration Period
- System sweep Period
- Trouble Call Response Period

Period 1 – Feeder Restoration

The first phase should be on the restoration of the main feeder. This will facilitate the restoration of the backbone of the circuit as well as establishing the feed to the critical customer involved, if any. This also enables the restoration of many lift stations, traffic lights, and underground subdivisions fed directly off the main feeder. Depending on the amount of damage to the distribution system, this process may take several days to complete. Construction crews will communicate with the Distribution Control Center (DCC) to report when the feeder is ready to be energized and to notify them as to any isolation of feeder segments that was necessary in order to facilitate restoration. When any portion of a feeder is energized, it is important to follow all pertinent safety procedures, especially when mutual aid crews are involved. Where a problem on laterals would take less than 15 minutes to repair, the problem should be corrected before proceeding to energize the feeder. If it is not immediately obvious that a lateral can be safely energized, then it is to be opened pending assessment. In general underground dips can be left closed.

Period 2 – Lateral Restoration

The second phase of restoration focuses on the laterals. The Planning Section will create restoration priorities based on situation and resource status that will be enacted by the Pershing, Gardenia and St. Cloud Division. During this phase, crews are to establish service to all customers on those segments who are available to receive service. Safety Inspection Branch members are utilized to assist in work preparation for the construction crews. A Re-instate Task Force will be initiated at the discretion of the Incident Commander or Operations Section Chief.

Period 3 – System Sweep

Phase three of restoration requires the crews to sweep the feeder. If the Incident Commander determines that the magnitude of damage is not significant enough to warrant a house-to-house survey, crews will be directed based on outage data from the OMS system. During this phase, restoration crews are given area maps detailing any outstanding outage call or reinstate order associated with the feeder. Once completed, every customer who is able to receive service should be in service. The Distribution OPS Group will be responsible for addressing any outages that subsequently occur on a swept feeder. The goal should be to ensure that customers who have had service restored, and then lose service, are restored by the next day.

Period 4 – Trouble Call Response

Phase four of restoration has the majority of crews transitioned to addressing trouble calls, re-instates, and new service order issues. This may take several days depending on the number of calls received. Once calls have been reduced to a normal level, Operations and Construction divisions will return to normal operating procedures.

INCIDENT COMMAND CENTER (ICP) – For Major Events

The Incident Command Center will be located on the second floor of the Pershing Operations building. Staff will report to this location as directed by the Incident Commander. Seating assignments will be made upon arriving to the post. When reporting to the ICC, one should bring a laptop computer and the IP phone assigned to the individual.

Depending on the complexity of the event, the ICC may be moved to a field location that is more suitable for the event.

ORGANIZATION

The plan is organized using NIMS as a guide, and many facets of the Incident Command System (ICS) criteria.

This document contains detailed information on structure and function when the Emergency Plan is activated. Included are task lists for each position, or expected positions. Since ICS is flexible, not all positions may be required in every event, disaster or emergency.

Each Section Chief has the latitude to scale the operation accordingly. An example of minimizing scalability would be for a particular branch or unit to be absorbed within the responsibilities of a Section Chief, Branch Director or Group/Division Supervisor.

Should the need arise to advance the scale of the operation beyond listed functions or tasks, the Incident Commander or their representative has the basic tools, through generic task lists, to accomplish the expansion as is necessary.

Listed below are examples of possible organizational structures depending on the nature of the incident:

- Major wind storm
- Major water incident (Example: main break requiring multiple response efforts)
- Major Plant Incident (Example: Plant explosion causing widespread damage)

Liaison Officer

➤ Report to the Incident Commander

The Liaison Officer is responsible for communicating emergencies and problems reported by area EOCs and forwarding provided information to the appropriate OUC Command Staff. OUC will utilize this information to ensure that necessary action is taken to address the issues reported. EOC Support staff will be stationed at local government EOC's. While there, employees will interface with other agencies to improve the situation as quickly as possible.

The impact of the disaster on OUC customers is reported to EOC authorities on a regular basis, so that they may combine it with information from the other entities present at the EOC. EOCs provide frequent status reports to the governor's office. This helps ensure that the overall impact of the disaster is quickly and accurately accessed, so that appropriate action may be taken to resolve major issues.

- ☐ Ensure that the branches coordinate all resource needs through the Logistics Section.
- ☐ Brief the Commander on all major incidents.

Energy Delivery Branch

The Energy Delivery Branch is responsible for restoring power to customers after a major incident. As a result of a major incident electric outages may be widespread and it is necessary to create priorities. OUC will afford the highest restoration priority to essential public health and safety facilities such as hospitals, 911 emergencies call centers, and critical water plants. OUC intends to respond with the highest priority to remedy situations where damaged equipment poses a significant threat to public safety, such as a live wire down on a road. Emphasis shall be given to re-establishing critical services and subsequent restoration of service to the greatest number of customers in the shortest possible time.

Electric System Facilities

The order of restoration priority within the electric system facilities will be as follows:

1. Transmission Lines
2. Substations
3. Main Distribution Feeders (including critical customers noted below)
4. Lateral Distribution Lines
5. Distribution Transformers
6. Secondary Lines and Services

Critical Customers

In addition to the above mentioned priority list, critical customers will be given priority restoration consideration.

The general priority is as follows:

1. Hospitals and Medical Facilities
2. Police, Fire, and Other Essential Public Services
3. EBS and Other Central Communications
4. Water and Wastewater Facilities
5. Central Food, Cold Storage, and Distribution Centers
6. Public Buildings Used As Shelters
7. Industrial and Commercial Customers
8. General Population

Customers on life support or with special needs will be advised to seek alternatives such as relocating to a hospital or shelter.

The Energy Delivery Branch subdivides the operational phase into four periods which triggers various task depending on the period:

Operational Phase:

- Feeder Restoration Period
- Lateral Restoration Period
- System sweep Period
- Trouble Call Response Period

Period 1 – Feeder Restoration

The first phase should be on the restoration of the main feeder. This will facilitate the restoration of the backbone of the circuit as well as establishing the feed to the critical customer involved, if any. This also enables the restoration of many lift stations, traffic lights, and underground subdivisions fed directly off the main feeder. Depending on the amount of damage to the distribution system, this process may take several days to complete. Construction crews will communicate with the Distribution Control Center (DCC) to report when the feeder is ready to be energized and to notify them as to any isolation of feeder segments that was necessary in order to facilitate restoration. When any portion of a feeder is energized, it is important to follow all pertinent safety procedures, especially when mutual aid crews are involved. Where a problem on laterals would take less than 15 minutes to repair, the problem should be corrected before proceeding to energize the feeder. If it is not immediately obvious that a lateral can be safely energized, then it is to be opened pending assessment. In general underground dips can be left closed.

Period 2 – Lateral Restoration

The second phase of restoration focuses on the laterals. The Planning Section will create restoration priorities based on situation and resource status that will be enacted by the Pershing, Gardenia and St. Cloud Division. During this phase, crews are to establish service to all customers on those segments who are available to receive service. Safety Inspection Branch members are utilized to assist in work preparation for the construction crews. A Reinstate Task Force will be initiated at the discretion of the Incident Commander or Operations Section Chief.

Period 3 – System Sweep

Phase three of restoration requires the crews to sweep the feeder. If the Incident Commander determines that the magnitude of damage is not significant enough to warrant a house-to-house survey, crews will be directed based on outage data from the OMS system. During this phase, restoration crews are given area maps detailing any outstanding outage call or reinstate order associated with the feeder. Once completed, every customer who is able to receive service should be in service. The Distribution OPS Group will be responsible for addressing any outages that subsequently occur on a swept feeder. The goal should be to ensure that customers who have had service restored, and then lose service, are restored by the next day.

Period 4 – Trouble Call Response

Phase four of restoration has the majority of crews transitioned to addressing trouble calls, reinstates, and new service order issues. This may take several days depending on the number of calls received. Once calls have been reduced to a normal level, Operations and Construction divisions will return to normal operating procedures.

Energy Delivery Director

➤ Report to the Operation's Section Chief

Responsibilities:

Energy Delivery Branch Director's role is to oversee entire distribution restoration operation and the operation of the transmission system. The chief system Operator and Distribution Operator will work with the Director in making operational decisions.

Ensure for the safety, welfare, and accountability of all personnel assigned to the Branch.

Preparation Phase:

- ☐ Finalize employee assignments

- ☐ Advise personnel to have Company ID with them
- ☐ Termination of construction and line clearance activities
- ☐ Employees and contractors receive final instructions including expected reporting times
- ☐ OMS system placed in "Hurricane Mode"

Operational Phase:

During Storm

- ☐ Monitor the status of the distribution system, the transmission system, and the communication systems.
- ☐ Crews selected to report for active storm duty continue to restore power until they deem work conditions unsafe or Incident Commander decides to halt repair work. (Typically up to 35 mph winds).
- ☐ Maintain accountability (location, unit, task) for all assigned crews.
- ☐ IVR system placed in "Hurricane Mode".
- ☐ Update report times on automated phone line.

Feeder Restoration Period

- ☐ Distribution Ops Group begins operation as soon as wind speed is deemed low enough to work safely.
- ☐ Construction Divisions begin tracking of crews involved in feeder restoration.
- ☐ Distribution Ops Group begins responding to emergency incidents.
- ☐ Transmission and Substation Branch begin responding to outage incidents.

Lateral Restoration Period

- ☐ Construction Divisions begin detailed management of work force to meet the assigned ETR's.
- ☐ Distribution Ops Group begins to respond to large outage areas which can be restored with minimal construction activity.
- ☐ If needed, the Reinstate Task Force will begin operation.

System Sweep Period

- ☐ Final sweeping of feeders is performed.
- ☐ Distribution Ops Group begins to respond to new outages on "swept" feeders.
- ☐ Create schedule for releasing mutual aid crews.

Trouble Call Period

- ☐ Majority of crew units are transitioned to addressing trouble calls, reinstates, and new service order issues.
- ☐ Construction Division will direct underground crews to make repairs to bad cables and switchgear that were switched out of service during the storm.

Demobilization Phase:

- ☐ Demobilization plan is begun.
- ☐ Crews will be released on a defined time schedule.

Distribution Operations Group

Distribution Operations Group Supervisor

➤ Report to the Energy Delivery Branch Director

This group's role is to coordinate and return the main feeder to service. They will also track location of the construction and line clearance crews as they work the initial Feeder restoration period. The Response Group supervisor will be responsible for leading this team. Dispatch personnel should be utilized to assist in documenting system status. They will also keep the Construction Scheduling Supervisor informed regarding the status of their assigned responsibilities.

Once feeder restoration is complete, this team will coordinate efforts to restore outages in areas where minimal construction is necessary to get larger numbers of customers back in power, to restore power to critical customers that have not yet been energized, respond to hazardous situation calls confirmed by the Safety Inspection Team, and to support other crews through switching operations. Team is made up of trouble technicians and dispatchers.

Pershing, Gardenia, St. Cloud Divisions

Division Supervisors

➤ Report to the Energy Delivery Branch Director

The Division Supervisor's role is to coordinate and track construction and line clearance teams, document progress, and modify task force as necessary in order to meet restoration goals. These teams will be located at Pershing, Gardenia, and St. Cloud.

The primary function of this group will be to coordinate and track the OUC construction crew units, outside mutual aid crew units, and line clearance units.

Based on the extent of the damage and assignments given, the Energy Delivery Director will determine the crew allocations to each work center. Once the Planning Section has determined feeder restoration priorities, the Pershing, Gardenia, St. Cloud Divisions will be responsible for dividing their allocated resources to best implement the restoration plan. The specific number of construction and line clearance personnel assigned to each circuit will depend on resource availability and damage extent. Should mutual aid assistance become extensive, OUC crews will be split in order to act in a leadership role (Field Supervisor) for these outside crews. In addition to line personnel, engineering personnel with line experience and successfully completed switching and tagging training may be utilized in this role.

Once a circuit is complete, the crew will receive their next assignment. It is the responsibility of the Construction Divisions to keep track of crew work locations and the specific personnel assigned to each crew unit. When restoration moves to period 4 Trouble Response, the Divisions will re-assign personnel to respond to trouble calls.

Reinstate Task Force

Reinstate Leader

➤ Report to the Energy Delivery Branch Director

As the restoration activities continue through the circuits and lateral lines it will be necessary to re-allocate resources to other areas of need. Customers will begin to have their services repaired immediately following the storm. These customers will require that their services be reinstated. Reinstate orders will continue to be handled through the CIS system. Call takers, using the Web browser application, will create REIN orders in CIS that will in turn go to the OUC Service Planning area. A decision will have to be made whether these orders will populate FDOP automatically or wait on the appropriate city or county inspection.

Orders will be printed out and delivered daily to the work center supervisor for distribution. At the end of the day, reinstate service order sheets are to be turned into the dispatch center for closing.

This group will be responsible for assuring the information going into and out of the FDOP system is as accurate as possible. This can be accomplished by utilizing call takers and OUC Service Planners to call customers in an effort to determine whether their reinstate order has already been worked. The team will also be responsible for printing the service orders, delivering them to the appropriate resource and updating the FDOP system upon completion of the orders.

Transmission Branch

The Transmission Branch is responsible for restoring power to critical transmission lines and substations during a major incident. The group is headed by the Transmission/Substation Group Supervisor. Refer to the predefined list of critical lines and substations which is used to set priorities in the event of multiple outages.

Transmission Branch Director

➤ Report to the Operation's Section Chief

Responsibilities:

Transmission Branch Director's role is to oversee entire transmission restoration operation. The chief system Operator will work with the Director in making operational decisions. Ensure for the safety, welfare, and accountability of all personnel assigned to the Group.

Preparation Phase:

- ☐ Assign personnel to critical substations prior to event.
- ☐ Make sure assigned employees are self-sufficient for 24 hours .
- ☐ Service vehicles and check other emergency equipment.
- ☐ Communicate to personnel of current emergency status. Reporting times should be established consistent with the expected arrival of emergency situation.
- ☐ Re-service all vehicles and other equipment as required. Make sure they are available for the preparation and Operational phase.
- ☐ Termination of construction activities.
- ☐ Employees and contractors receive final instructions including expected reporting times.

Operational Phase:

- ☐ See the Office of the Director of Transmission for details on critical lines and substation priorities.

Transmission Task Force

➤ Report to the Transmission Branch Director

The task force's role is to coordinate and track transmission teams, document progress, and modify task force teams as necessary in order to meet restoration goals. These teams will be located at Pershing.

The primary function of this task force will be to coordinate and track the OUC transmission crew units, outside and mutual aid crew units.

Water Branch

The Water Branch is responsible for the restoring operations of all water producing equipment, storage equipment, and distribution system mains in the event of a major incident. This will best be accomplished by keeping sufficient water pressure in the distribution system to prevent contamination and by maintaining adequate chlorine residual to resist any contamination that may occur.

Water Branch supervisor will be responsible for maintaining contact information for contractors who assist with the maintenance of the SCADA System. These contractors will be called-in if needed.

Water Operation priority is as follows:

- Water Plants
- Water Mains
- Water Services

Water Director

➤ Report to the Operation's Section Chief

Responsibilities: (See Appendix C for detailed plan)

Water Director's role is to oversee entire water restoration effort. Ensure for the safety, welfare, and accountability of all personnel assigned to the Branch.

Preparation Phase:

- ☐ Maintain high inventory of critical chemicals.
- ☐ Stock flashlights, batteries, battery-operated radios, duct tape, heavy-duty plastic (trash) bags, heavy-duty plastic sheeting or visqueen, and rope in sufficient quantities.
- ☐ Restock First-aid Kits.
- ☐ Windows at the plants will be protected, preferably with steel shuttering 36 to 48 hours in advance for predicted major storms.
- ☐ Formulate the emergency and contingency staffing of the plants and Pershing Control Center.
- ☐ Provide rest facilities such as cots, sleeping bags, pillows at critical plants.
- ☐ Fuel tanks for the generators should be measured and filled if necessary.
- ☐ Loose equipment should be tied down or stored, and broken branches and debris should be removed immediately.
- ☐ Portable communications such as cell phones, and hand-held radios should be available. Truck radios should be checked and operating.
- ☐ Test all emergency engines.

Operational Phase:

- ☐ Report damage assessment of critical plants to Water Operations Branch Director.
- ☐ Notify Energy Delivery Branch Director of any plants without power and request priority restoration if needed.
- ☐ Repair the distribution system in an effort to restore integrity into the system to maintain pressure.
- ☐ Obtain bacteriological sample in various parts of the distribution system as needed.
- ☐ Establish priorities for restoration by customer priority.
- ☐ Full restoration of water treatment processes may proceed as the safety and integrity of each system and plant is ascertained.

Water Production Division

Water Production Division Supervisor

➤ Report to the Water Operations Branch Director

The Water Production Division is responsible for the restoration of all water producing and storage equipment. These facilities are normally operated without assigned staff from a centralized control center. Production's objective is to prevent contamination and by maintaining adequate chlorine residual to resist any contamination that may occur.

Specific operating procedures and parameter for all facilities must be established prior to the onset of hurricane conditions. The status of critical pieces of plant equipment and the condition of the distribution system may dictate changes to normal established procedures.

Chlorine is essential to maintaining a healthy system, and vital to restoring the system if contaminated. Chlorine feed equipment will be maintained in service as long as safe operation can be assured. Chlorine residuals leaving the treatment plants may be raised to higher than normal levels at the discretion of the responsible person at the plant or the operator at the Pershing Control Center.

Fluoride is not essential and feed should be terminated at all plants prior to the onset of extreme weather operations to reduce the possibility of chemical spills. Caustic soda addition for corrosion control should be maintained as long as safe operation can be assured.

All Water Production employees will maintain their normal work assignments unless otherwise directed. The operator on duty at the control center will be kept informed of the status of personnel needs and assignments, and should be contacted if there are questions. In the event that communication with the Pershing Control Center is not possible, personnel should proceed to their assigned location and be prepared to assume on-site operational responsibility.

Water System Operators and managerial personnel shall staff the Pershing Control Center continuously throughout the duration of the storm. Southwest "Back-up" Operations Center will also have a Water System Operator on duty and managerial personnel in the event that communications is lost at the Pershing Operations Center.

When the plants are manned during a hurricane and there is a loss of communication through the fiber optic, the technician will have to operate the plant from the plant workstation. The technician will keep the system operator at Pershing informed of the operational status at the plant either by telephone or through radio communication. If communication by radio and telephone is impossible, the technician will record chlorine, pH, fluoride, pressure, and flow every hour and operate the plant using his/her own best judgment until communication by telephone, radio, or fiber optic relay is reestablished with the system operator at Pershing. The Southwest Water Plant is set up to be an alternate (back-up) operations center in the event that Pershing becomes inoperable.

All outside (unenclosed, freestanding) fluoride tanks will be valved off to prevent spills.

Fluctuating or intermittent power may cause problems in maintaining pumping rates to provide adequate system pressure and may damage the equipment. It will be left to the discretion of the assigned staff on site at each plant when to switch the plant to generator-supplied power.

If widespread loss of electric power or damage to the water distribution system makes maintenance of adequate pressure difficult or problematic, it may become necessary to completely shut down the system. Once any part of the distribution system is in danger from possible contamination, the entire system must be considered potentially contaminated and a "boil water" notice should be communicated to the appropriate management team for dissemination to the public. Until such a determination is made, however, water in the system should be considered safe.

Document all changes made to normal operating procedures.

Water Distribution Group

Water Distribution Group Supervisor

➤ Report to the Water Operations Branch Director

(See Appendix D for detailed plan)

Water Distribution will initially be responsible to assist in the repair of all water plants. After the plants are functional, or Water Operations does not need the support of Water Distribution, Water Distribution will repair water mains and services damaged by the storm. The Director, Managers and Supervisors will coordinate the recovery efforts. After the water system is deemed sufficiently repaired by the Director, staff and equipment may be released to other business units. The Duty Supervisor will coordinate the release of employees and equipment to other Business Units. The Coordinators, Administrative Staff, and those trained in Dispatch shall staff the OUC Service Dispatch center until after all storm recovery is complete.

- Water Maintenance: All Water Maintenance Staff will report to their temporary assigned Water Treatment Plants. Upon arrival at the plant they will report to the plant's operator. If the water plant is fully functional, and the operator does not need any assistance, the crew will be released and begin restoration of the water distribution system. After the water distribution system is fully operational, two of the five crews maybe released to assist other business units in their recovery. This recovery may include debris removal and heavy courier services.
- Water Response: All staff will respond in their work vehicles (which shall be taken home with them prior to the event). Upon being able to make contact with Water Service Dispatch, they will be notified where to report. They will not be released from duties to assist other business units.
- Water Inspection: All staff will respond in their work vehicles (which shall be taken home with them prior to the event). Upon being able to make contact with Water Service Dispatch, they will be notified where to report. After providing assistance to Water Maintenance and Response they will be released to assist other business units in their recovery. This recovery may include the assistance in damage assessments and directing outside recovery crews to damaged areas. Inspection activities shall not resume until after all recovery efforts have been completed.
- Water Accountability: All staff will respond in their work vehicles (which shall be taken home with them prior to the event). Upon being able to make contact with Water Service Dispatch, they will be notified where to report. After providing assistance to Water Maintenance and Response they will be released to assist other business units in their recovery. This recovery may include the assistance in damage assessments, directing outside recovery crews to damaged areas, and light courier services. Due to the anticipated need to disconnect water services to our customers following an event, no more than 4 employees with vehicles shall be released to other business units.
