Residential Propane Distribution Program

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:
The program is designed to promote the use of "gas" within developments that are built beyond the economic extension of the Company's existing natural gas infrastruch. The concept of installing an underground propane system, which includes distribution mains, service laterals and meter sets that are capable of supplying either propane or natural gas, is a viable method of encouraging installation of "gas" appliances in the residential subdivision at the time of construction. This program is designed to provide incentives when nah1ral gas becomes available to the development and the propane appliances are replaced with natural gas appliances.

PROGRAM ALLOWANCES FPU

Tank Water Heater	$275
Range	$75
Dryer	$75

PROGRAM ALLOWANCES FCG

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PROGRESS

PROGRAM TITLE:
Residential Propane Distribution Program

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:
The program is designed to promote the use of "gas" within developments that are built beyond the economic extension of the Company's existing natural gas infrastructure. The concept of installing an underground propane system, which includes distribution mains, service laterals and meter sets that are capable of supplying either propane or natural gas, is a viable method of encouraging installation of "gas" appliances in the residential subdivision at the time of construction. This program is designed to provide incentives when natural gas becomes available to the development and the propane appliances are replaced with natural gas appliances.

PROGRAM ALLOWANCES:

Furnace or Hydro heater	$525
Water Heater	$275
Range	$75
Dryer	$75

PROGRAM PROJECTIONS:
For the twelve-month period of January to December 2025, the Company estimates that no appliances will be connected to its natural gas system using this program.

PROGRAM FISCAL EXPENDITURES:
During the twelve-month period of January to December 2025, the Company estimates expenses of $0.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:
The program is designed to promote the use of "gas" within developments that are built beyond the economic extension of the Company's existing natural gas infrastruch. The concept of installing an underground propane system, which includes distribution mains, service laterals and meter sets that are capable of supplying either propane or natural gas, is a viable method of encouraging installation of "gas" appliances in the residential subdivision at the time of construction. This program is designed to provide incentives when nah1ral gas becomes available to the development and the propane appliances are replaced with natural gas appliances.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION AND PROGRESS

PROGRAM TITLE:
Residential Propane Distribution Program

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:
The program is designed to promote the use of "gas" within developments that are built beyond the economic extension of the Company's existing natural gas infrastructure. The concept of installing an underground propane system, which includes distribution mains, service laterals and meter sets that are capable of supplying either propane or natural gas, is a viable method of encouraging installation of "gas" appliances in the residential subdivision at the time of construction. This program is designed to provide incentives when natural gas becomes available to the development and the propane appliances are replaced with natural gas appliances.

PROGRAM ALLOWANCES:

Furnace or Hydro heater	$525
Water Heater	$275
Range	$75
Dryer	$75

PROGRAM PROJECTIONS:

FPSC EXH No. 14

Interrogatory No. 1a

FLORIDA CITY GAS'S RESPONSES TO STAFF'S FIRST SET OF INTERROGATORIES

1. Please refer to Schedule CT-2 of FCG's May 1, 2024 filing in Docket No. 20240004-GU, in order to answer the following:

   a. Actual costs of $1,299,292 were recorded for advertising for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $1,399,973 for this period, resulting in a negative variance of $100,681. Please explain how the utility evaluates the effectiveness of advertising expenditures from one year to the next, in order to make decisions to increase or decrease budget allocations to support its conservation programs.

FCG Response

The lower costs in marketing expenses compared to projections was due to FCG ownership transition to Chesapeake Utilities to align marketing strategies and material. FCG uses historic, current and trends to analyze performance of customer participation including customer calls, service requests, electronic inquiries and responses. FCG analyses variances and stablish best practices with the objective to compare and predict as accurate as possible customer behavior, weather patterns, local economic drives among other external factors for better decision making.

Declarant: Asiel Rodriguez

b. Actual costs of $1,487,575 were recorded for Incentives in the Residential New Construction program for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $1,619,700 for this period, resulting in a negative variance of $132,125. Please explain the principle drivers for this negative variance in the January-December 2023 period.

FCG Response:

The reduction in incentives cost for the New Construction Programs related to the fact that the actual number of rebate applications from customers and builders during the 2023 period was lower than estimated as a result of the continued increase in housing prices and higher interest rates affecting the housing affordability and demand. The 2023 estimated incentive costs for this program were based on the best information available at the time the forecast was prepared and submitted in 2022.

Declarant: Asiel Rodriguez

c. Actual costs of $1,146,249 were recorded for Incentives in the Residential Appliance Retention program for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $1,084,465 for this period, resulting in a positive variance of $61,784. Please explain the principle drivers for this positive variance in the January-December 2023 period.

FCG Response:

The slight increase in the Residential Appliance Retention program compared to the projected cost is a result of the increased trend of house renovation and appliance renewal instead of acquisition of a new property with high market price and interest rate. The 2023 estimated incentive costs for this program were based on the best information available at the time the forecast was prepared and submitted in 2022.

Declarant: Asiel Rodriguez

d. Actual costs of $677,948 were recorded for Incentives in the Commercial Appliance program for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $473,725 for this period, resulting in a positive variance of $204,223. Please explain the principle drivers for this positive variance in the January-December 2023 period.

FCG Response:

FCG noticed an increase in businesses participating in this program, such as restaurants and laundromats. Additionally, FCG increased outreach activities to promote the available energy conservation rebates for this program.

Declarant: Asiel Rodriguez

Interrogatory No. 1e

e. On Page 2 of 4, $96,006 in actual costs were recorded for "Other" Common Costs, compared to an estimated amount of $69,281. Please describe this expense, and the reasons for the positive variance of $26,725 for this expense category in the January-December 2023 period.

FCG Response:

Under the "Other" Common Costs FCG records conservation program expenses that benefit all the programs such as vendor fees for rebate processing and payment. Also included in this category is the cost FCG participation in the Florida Natural Gas Association marketing, community outreach and regulatory committees related to the conservation program. The annual cost variance is related to the increase of the number of rebates processed compared to prior year and also an increase in contractor services for the rebate processing and payment.

INTERROGATORIES

2. Please refer to the August 1, 2024 FPUC and FCG's Joint Petition for Approval of Cost Recovery Factors, filed in Docket No. 20240004-GU. Paragraph 4 states, in part, "the Companies seek to consolidate the gas conservation functions, as well as the costs incurred by each utility, which is expected to result in administrative efficiencies."

A. Please describe the nature of the administrative efficiencies that FPUC anticipates will occur in 2025 if the Commission were to approve schedules based on the consolidated costs of FPUC and FCG.

i. What analysis has been done to quantitatively demonstrate that administrative efficiencies will result in 2025 from approving schedules based on consolidated costs? Provide any documents in support of your response.

Company Response:

The Companies focused on the following initial administrative efficiencies to the program. The efficiencies that we have identified so far in the consolidation efforts include, but are not limited to the following areas:

- The Companies are operating under one conservation department and all conservation initiatives will be under this department. Therefore, best practices and procedures will be consistent and streamlined between the two companies.

FPSC EXH No. 15
Docket No. 20240004-GU

- The Companies plan to use the same platform for processing the energy conservation rebates, allowing faster review and additional resources for customer inquiries.
- The Companies plan to use the same third-party contractor for incentive fulfillment, this will streamline the process instead of having to coordinate several contractors and processes.
- Regarding program customer education and advertising the following efficiencies may be obtained:
    - By pooling resources, both companies could potentially reduce costs on creative concepting and development, traditional media purchases, and production, maximizing the impact of their marketing budgets.
    - Combined budgets allow for larger media buys, potentially leading to better rates, premium placements, and more extensive reach.
    - Shared strategies and campaigns lead to more efficient project management, reducing duplication of efforts and time spent on approvals and revisions.
    - Streamlining invoicing processes increases operational efficiency, making it easier to track expenses and manage payments for both companies.

FPSC EXH No. 15
Docket No. 20240004-GU
ADMITTED

- A combined approach allows for the sharing of market research, competitive analysis, and customer insights, leading to more informed and effective marketing strategies.

- Preparation of one set of reports each year and data requests. This should reduce administrative and legal costs, although it is impossible to fully quantify the savings until we have been able to operate for some period under a consolidated structure. As FPUC has seen in prior, similar efforts undertaken in 2014, the Companies do firmly believe that efficiencies, consistency, and ultimately savings will result from taking this step.

ii. What analysis has been done to quantitatively demonstrate that cost reductions will result in 2025 from approving schedules based on consolidated costs? Provide any documents in support of your response.

Company Response:

At this time, the Companies are not able to provide a reasonable assessment of the extent of the cost reductions; however, the Companies do anticipate potential savings associated with a reduction of duplicative services/efforts and consistent with what FPUC realized after 2014. Some of the examples of areas of anticipated savings include:

- Once the Companies use the same platform, the cost of contractor fees and any internal administration efforts may be reduced and will be reflected in the next true-up filing.
- Cost or incentive processing fees can be reduced once FCG transfers to FPUC in-house rebate platform. Any cost reduction will be reflected in the next true-up filing.
- Call center efficiencies as the conservation inquiries will be handled by the internal conservation team instead of the third-party contractor.
- The reduction in production costs for the Energy Conservation education, outreach and Marketing initiatives will allow allocation of these resources for better territory coverage and increase message frequency.

B. Will the expected administrative efficiencies result in lower costs, and when does the company expect that administrative efficiencies will be realized? Please explain your response, specifically addressing why the sum of non-consolidated projected 2025 costs ($6,903,600 for FCG and $4,643,525 for FPUC, as shown in Exhibit DMC-3) is an equal amount to the consolidated projected 2025 costs ($11,574,125, as shown in Exhibit DMC-2).

Company Response:

The Companies expect that the consolidation would result in lower costs in the future, but in this initial instant petition, the companies' intent was to start the consolidation process and therefore, utilized the projected costs related to each company. At this time the Companies are not able to provide a reasonable assessment of the extent of the reductions however, any lower costs realized by the elimination of duplicative services/efforts would be reflected in the over/under recovery in the next filing.

C. Please explain how FCG customers benefit from using consolidated costs (as reflected in Exhibit DMC-2) to develop the 2025 cost recovery factors that FCG customers would pay, if approved?

Company Response:

Some of the customer benefits for FCG are as follows:

- Reductions in the incentive processing time with the new platform so customers receive their rebates quicker.
- Lower contractor cost for incentive processing thereby lowering conservation rates.
- Better customer experience with the transition of internal incentive review and approvals.
- Increase customer education and program awareness with better allocation of program resources.
- Trade allies partner integration to better respond to customer installation and conversion needs.
- Wider customer support from program representatives as they will be able to assist where the customer need is greater and reduction of direct calls to the call center as conservation inquiries will be handled by the internal conservation team.

- Increase customer education and program awareness with better allocation of program resources.
- Trade allies partner integration to better respond to customer installation and conversion needs.
- Better response to customer inquiries and requests related to the conservation program as agents will work under the same system platform.

E. Please explain why it is appropriate to consolidate projected 2025 costs, and then allocate those costs to cost recovery factors that support conservation programs that have not been consolidated.

F. Paragraph 4 also states that the utilities consolidation proposal is "similar to the approach approved by the Commission in Order No. PSC-2014-0655-FOF-GU, issued in Docket No. 20140004-GU." Page 6 of Order No. PSC-2014-0655-FOF-GU affirms the Commission's finding that the petitioner is "permitted to consolidate the conservation programs." Please clarify whether the joint petitioners are seeking to consolidate their conservation programs via the instant petition.

Yes, the Companies are seeking to consolidate conservation programs via the instant petition. If approved, FPUC plans to assume the conservation programs of FCG.

3. Please refer to the August 1, 2024 direct testimony of Derrick M. Craig, page 2, lines 22-24, which states "Program costs, under the Companies proposal and as presented in Exhibit DMC-2, would be allocated to the separate rate schedules based on the share of base revenues each rate provides to the consolidated natural gas unit." Please answer the following:

   A. Please explain why this allocation method is proposed?

Company Response

This allocation method is the same methodology the companies use in their annual petition for conservation cost recovery factor, the only difference is the program costs' consolidation. The methodology is also the same used for FPUC in Order No. PSC-2014-0655-FOF-GU, issued in Docket No. 20140004-GU approved by this Commission.

Exhibit DCM-3 contains the non-consolidated calculation of each Company's recovery factors. This methodology is used each year to develop the Companies cost recovery factors and used in the consolidated calculation in Exhibit DMC-2.

Please provide an explanation of what these costs are.

Company Response

Under the category "Other Common Cost" the company records vendor fees for incentives processing and monthly amortization of the FCG participation in the Florida Natural Gas Association, marketing, community outreach and regulatory committees related to the conservation program.

Of this total, $1,175,400 is budgeted for the July through December timeframe.

   A. What operational changes, if any, are required to reflect the July through December resource allocation?

Company Response

As mentioned in this interrogatory response 5B, FCG completed the rebranding of its advertising material, and deployed mostly in the 3rd quarter. Also, FCG hired a new advertising manager.

B. Please explain why the utility's advertising strategy is projected to allocate about 84 percent of resources (the estimated portion of $1,175,400 divided by sum total of $1,399,958) to the July through December 2024 timeframe.

Company Response

This is due to timing, as a result of the Chesapeake acquisition of FCG in November 2023 FCG advertising had to be rebranded. Also FCG transitioned to a different advertising contractor for design and media buys and additionally, hired a new advertising manager in 2024 to cover FCG needs that were previously covered by its previous parent company.

Of this total, $25,000 is budgeted for the July through December timeframe.

B. Please explain why the utility's advertising strategy for this program is projected to allocate about 85 percent of resources (the estimated portion of $25,000 divided by sum total of $29,437) to the July through December timeframe.

Company Response

This is a timing difference as there were $1,100 in monthly allocations for advertising contracts that started in May and will continue through the remainder of 2024. After the acquisition of Florida City Gas at the end of 2023, Florida Public Utilities Company was mainly focused on FCG's conversion and incorporation into Chesapeake processes and procedures early in the year. However, the Company is returning to normal levels thus the increase in the latter half of the year.

Please provide an explanation of what these costs are.

These costs are for third party vendors that provide services to Florida Public Utilities for the creation and maintenance of FPUC's remote energy auditing program that customers can access through the Company website.

Of this total, $37,500 is budgeted for Incentives to be paid in the July through December 2024 timeframe.

B. Please explain why the utility is projecting to process about 94 percent of Incentives (the estimated portion of $37,500 divided by sum total of $39,983) for this program in the July through December 2024 timeframe.

Company Response

Incentives for this program encourage laundry facility owners to convert their washers and, particularly, their dryers to natural gas equipment. Rebates were only paid for the month of May and the Company believes that more of these owners will have an increased need to replace their older equipment as the year progresses. As these laundry facility owners replace their aging equipment, FPUC sales staff expects to utilize these program incentives at an increased rate during the second half of 2024.

9. Please refer to the August 22, 2024 Joint Preliminary Statement of Issues and Positions for Florida Public Utilities Company and Florida City Gas, which reflects the following position for Issue 2: "The projected true-up for the period January 2024 through December 2024 is an over-recovery of $512,828." Please demonstrate the how the $512,828 value was calculated. For each component of the calculation, provide referencing information (page, line, and column within C-schedules) to filing(s) the utility has made in Docket No. 20240004-GU.

Company Response

The January through December over recovery of $512,828 was determined by adding FPUC 2023 under-recovery actual adjusted end of period total true up of $239,290 to FCG 2023 under-recovery actual adjusted end of period total true up of $161,423 for a total under-recovery of $400,812. To this total we added the 2025 over-recovery projected net true up of $112,015.

2023 Final True Up – FCG $161,423 Under-recovery (CT-2 pg 1 of 4)

C. For each program identified in Schedule C-5, provide therm savings per participant for each rebate or measure offered in the program.

Companies' Response:

Neither FPUC nor FCG routinely tracks per therm savings on a per rebate or measure basis, because the Commission has not adopted conservation goals for either utility or the associated reporting. See, Section 366.82(1)(a), Florida Statutes. Nonetheless, the Companies are providing the estimated per therm savings calculated as follows..

The Companies calculated the total kilowatt-hours avoided through the program. These kilowatt-hours were converted into British Thermal Units (Btu) by using a standard conversion factor and, for this question, the Btu's were further converted into therms. The table below outlines the average calculated therm savings per rebate (taking the average savings among all of the different appliances in each program):

INTERROGATORY RESPONSES

1. Please refer to Schedule CT-2 of FPUC's May 1, 2024 filing in Docket No. 20240004-GU, in order to answer the following:

   a. Actual costs of $884,258 were recorded for advertising for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $729,211 for this period, resulting in a positive variance of $155,047. Please explain this variance. Address in your response how the utility evaluates the effectiveness of advertising expenditures from one year to the next, in order to make decisions to increase or decrease budget allocations to support its conservation programs.

FPUC Response:

The variance between the actual and the projected advertising costs was primarily the result of higher appliance purchases relative to the original forecast. The additional appliance purchases particularly had the effect of increasing these variances in the Residential Appliance Replacement and Residential Appliance Retention programs.

Respondent: Derrick Craig

FPSC EXH No. 17
Docket No. 20240004-GU
ADMITTED

b. Actual costs of $1,722,646 were recorded for Incentives in the Residential New Construction program for the period of January through December 2023, compared to projected costs of $1,642,479 for this period, resulting in a positive variance of $80,167. Please explain the principle drivers for this positive variance in the January-December 2023 period.

FPUC Response:

Much of this variance was the result of a higher than projected number of rebates that were processed for the purchases of tankless water heaters, gas ranges, and gas dryers.

Respondent: Derrick Craig

c. Actual costs of $883,669 were recorded for Payroll and Labor and Payroll Expenses for the period of January through December 2023, with $385,945 of that total apportioned to one program (Residential New Construction), and the balance of the total ($447,724) recorded as a Common Cost. Please explain why the utility apportions these costs in this manner.

FPUC Response:

Employees in the energy conservation department work on all conservation programs, so their salary expenses are apportioned to the Common program to represent their overall contribution. The dollars allocated to the Residential New Construction program represent the labor expenses from sales and marketing employees whose energy conservation efforts are dedicated to the sale of energy efficient appliances in newly-constructed residential buildings.

1. Please refer to Docket No. 20230121-EG, Petition of Associated Gas Distributors of Florida (AGDF) for Approval of Conservation Demonstration and Development Program (Petition), filed on October 16, 2023 (FPSC Document No. 05698-2023), to answer the following questions: In its Petition at paragraph 5, AGDF asserts that it made its filing on behalf of its members, except for PGS, citing that while PGS is a member of the AGDF organization, the petition was filed on behalf of other AGDF members, but exclusive of PGS because the utility already has an approved Conservation Demonstration and Development (CDD) program.

A. Does PGS agree with AGDF's statement regarding PGS's reason for why it is not a member represented as part of AGDF's petition in Docket No. 20230121-EG? If not, please fully explain PGS's reason(s) for opting out of the petition.

B. Would PGS's participation in any and all CDD projects sponsored by AGDF's CDD program modify PGS's existing CDD program as approved in Order No. PSC-2021-0242-PAA-GU, thereby requiring Commission approval? Please explain.

A. A. Yes. PGS agrees with AGDF's statement in paragraph 5 that its petition is filed on behalf of "its members with the exception of [PGS]" and the related footnote that explains that "[PGS] has a recently approved Conservation and Research and Development Program …". In other words, AGDF accurately describes the company's reason for electing not to parcipate in its petition.

B. No. Peoples' participation in any CDD project sponsored by AGDF would not require modification of the company's existing CRD Program. Peoples' CRD program allows for the company to research measures that have the potential to affect the company or its ratepayers and for which sufficient data is not available. This program criteria will guide Peoples evaluation of each AGDF-sponsored CDD project. Peoples would participate in only those projects that conform with the company's CRD Program.

2. Please refer to Docket No. 20230121-EG, and specifically to AGDF's 12/15/23 responses to staff's first data requests (FPSC Document No. 06618-2023). AGDF's response to Question 1.B., states, in part, "Peoples . . . can participate in joint research projects with the AGDF members or pursue independent research projects. This autonomy, with the option to co-fund to increase the scale of the project, provides additional resources where needed . . .."

A. To what extent does PGS intend to participate in any specified project (e.g. planning, funding, design, implementation, etc.) if AGDF and PGS agree that PGS will, in fact, participate?

B. Please state the financial support PGS plans to provide, if any, to any joint research project(s) with AGDF, if the petition is approved, for:

1. the remaining months of 2024;

2. the period inclusive of the years 2025 through 2029 (please specify timing and the name of the project(s)).

C. If PGS does participate in a specified AGDF CDD project, will it do so with the understanding that the results of such a project will be shared with all member(s) of AGDF, including those that may have chosen to not financially support (i.e. opt out of) the project? Please explain.

D. If PGS does participate in specified AGDF CDD project(s), will detailed information and related administrative standards regarding its participation be filed with the Commission as part of its CDD program in its DSM plan that is due to be filed later this year, subsequent to the Commission's final order establishing PGS's goals for 2025 through 2034? Please explain.

A. A. Peoples does not have any existing plans to participate in any AGDF CDD projects; however, Peoples believes nothing precludes it from participating in a particular AGDF CDD project by planning, funding, designing, or implementing projects, like other similarly situated AGDF members. Peoples will only participate after evaluating the project based on the company's CRD Program criteria as described in Staff's Interrogatory No. 1(b).

E61

1. Peoples does not have any existing plans to participate in any AGDF CDD projects in 2024 or beyond; however, were Peoples to provide funding for an AGDF CDD project, it would be limited to $500,000 over five years, per the company's Commission-approved CRD Program.

2. Please see the company's response to Staff's Interrogatory No. 2(b)(1).

C. Yes. If Peoples chooses to engage in a particular AGDF CDD project, it will do so with the understanding that the outcomes will be shared with all AGDF member utilities, including those that have opted not to provide financial backing. This full disclosure practice has been a longstanding tradition within AGDF and reflects the resource disparities between larger and smaller utilities.

D. No. Peoples plans to continue its current CRD Program in its 2025-2034 DSM Plan and will include a program description and administrative standards in its filing. Peoples does not currently have plans to agree to participate in an AGDF CDD project before filing administrative standards as part of its 2025-2034 DSM Plan. The company recognizes that the Commission has not approved AGDF's petition in Docket No. 20230121.

Should PGS participate in AGDF CDD projects in the future, the costs will be reported through its annual NGCCR filings, and more information will be available to staff via request in the annual NGCCR proceedings and FEECA-related filings.

3. Please refer to Docket No. 20230004-GU, PGS's projection filing for 2024, filed August 4, 2023 (FPSC Document No. 04527-2023).

A. Schedule C-2, Page 1 of 2, Line 11, indicates that PGS estimated that $5,000 would be allocated to the Conservation R&D program in 2024. Please explain the basis for that budgeted amount.

B. The projected expense for $5,000 is categorized as an "Outside Services" expense. If known, please identify the vendor(s) that are budgeted to provide these services.

C. Provide a description of PGS's Conservation R&D program in 2024 to date, including project descriptions and current status of project progress, expenditures, and findings, if any.

D. Per PGS's 2019 DSM Plan (Docket No. 20190210-GU, FPSC Document No. 11031-2019), PGS's Conservation R&D program allowed for total expenditures not to exceed $500,000 over the five year period ending 2024, with estimated annual expenditures of $125,000. Considering the relatively small amount of program expenditures to date, please explain why PGS has not implemented a Conservation R&D program as planned, at least through August 2023?

A. A. Peoples included $5,000 in its projection filing for 2024 as a placeholder (i.e., budgeted dollars) to allow the company flexibility if a CRD co-funding opportunity came about during the year.

B. There is no specific vendor identified.

C. Peoples has not engaged in any CRD activities in 2024 to date.

D. Peoples included the CRD Program in its DSM Plan to have the mechanism and funds available when an appropriate R&D opportunity arises. The company has traditionally participated in research and development by co-funding projects, especially with AGDF. Over the past five years, in the absence of an AGDF CDD project, Peoples has explored other CRD co-funding opportunities but did not find an opportunity that meets the program's criteria.

4. Schedule CT-6, Page 2 of 12, of PGS's May 1, 2024 filing in Docket No. 20240004-GU, reflects that actual expenses for the Residential New Construction program were $15,257,550 in the January-December 2023 period, compared to the projected expenses of $16,662,638 for this period, resulting in a variance of ($1,405,088).

a. Please explain why the variance occurred. Identify in your response any unforeseen factors that contributed to this result, and if applicable, describe what corrective improvements have been implemented on a going forward basis to more accurately estimate projected expenses for this program.

b. Please provide a chart or spreadsheet file to demonstrate a breakdown of the $15,257,550 program expense, by appliance and rebate amount.

a. The variance of $1.4 million, or eight percent of the projected expenses for the Residential New Construction Program, was primarily driven by one builder within Peoples' territory that applied for a large number of rebates in May and June of 2023. These rebates were processed for payment in June, ensuring they would be appropriately reflected in actuals for the first half of 2023. When preparing its 2023 NGCCR Projection Filing, the company then projected that the activity from July-December 2023 would mirror the activity from January-June 2023, with a ten percent decrease to account for the historical decrease in rebate applications during the holiday season. Although internal subject matter experts advised during the company's forecasting process that the second half of 2023 would be similar to the first half, the number of rebates processed in the first half did not turn out to be indicative of the rebates processed in the second half due to the high volume of rebates processed in June 2023.

In future forecasting, Peoples will ensure that, if relying on historical trends to project future activity, any atypical activity in the historical numbers will be reviewed and considered for removal for purposes of projecting into the future.

b. Pursuant to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c), Peoples answers this interrogatory by providing the attached Microsoft Excel file, entitled a. What forecasting inputs were relied upon to develop the projected number of participants for this program in 2023?

5. Schedule CT-6, Page 10 of 12, of PGS's May 1, 2024 filing in Docket No. 20240004-GU, reflects that 5,109 customers participated in the Commercial Retention program in the January-December 2023 period, compared to the projected number of participants, which was 2,050.

b. Please explain why the variance between actual (5,109) and forecasted (2,050) results occurred. Identify in your response any unforeseen factors that contributed to this result, and if applicable, describe what corrective improvements have been implemented on a going forward basis to more accurately estimate the number of customer participants for this program.

c. Please provide a chart or spreadsheet file to demonstrate a breakdown of the 5,109 customer participants, by appliance and rebate.

a. The Commercial Retention Program had a total of 2,386 participants in 2023. The total can be found by adding up the participants in the table on Schedule CT-6, Page 10 of 12, of Peoples' May 1, 2024 filing in Docket No. 20240004-GU. The 5,109 participants indicated in the "Program Progress Summary" section represent the number of customers that have participated since Peoples launched the program in 2014, inclusive of the participants for 2023. The variance between Peoples' projection (2,050) and the actual number of participants (2,386) was 336, or 16 percent.

For this program, Peoples utilized the same forecasting methodology described in Peoples' Response to Staff's 2nd Set of Interrogatories, Number 4 above. Peoples projected the July-December 2023 period to match the January-June 2023 period, with a ten percent decrease. Applying this methodology to the 1,079 rebates paid in the January-June 2023 period, Peoples forecasted 971 rebates for the July-December period.

b. The primary cause for the actual participants being 16 percent higher than projected for this program is due to an increase in rebate applications for "low-cost" fryer models throughout 2023. From January-June 2023, Peoples paid rebates on an average of 92 "low-cost" fryers per month. In the second half of the year, this average increased to 182

"low-cost" fryers per month. In total, 1,642 fryer rebates were paid in 2023 on "low-cost" models alone, compared to 250 fryer rebates total in 2022. Peoples is planning to make changes to this program in its upcoming DSM Plan filing in Docket No. 20240018-EG to achieve a more stable participation level and improved forecasting.

c. Pursuant to Florida Rule of Civil Procedure 1.340(c), Peoples answers this interrogatory by providing the attached Microsoft Excel file entitled "(BS #3) PGS Rebate Activity 2023.xlsx," containing the tab labeled "Commercial Retention".
