ORDER APPROVING TARIFF

BY THE COMMISSION:

On April 2, 1992, GTE of Florida, Inc. (GTEFL) filed tariff revisions to introduce GTEFL's Integrated Services Digital Network (ISDN) Primary Rate Interface (PRI) offering. GTEFL was the first company in Florida to tariff ISDN type services. ISDN is not a service but rather a means of providing service. GTEFL has proposed a phase-in approach to implementing ISDN services. This revision is the second phase of that approach.

The ISDN will be capable of providing end-to-end digital communication and a full integration of technologies and applications over existing twisted pair wiring. ISDN has two interfaces which are utilized for subscriber access to the integrated network, Basic Rate Interface (BRI) and PRI. The difference between BRI and PRI is capacity. The BRI has only three channels with a capacity of 144 Kbps while PRI has 24 channels and a capacity of 1.544 megabits per second (mbps).

GTEFL estimates a revenue impact of $184,690 for the remainder of 1992 and $431,910 for 1993. The proposed rates appear to cover costs and provide adequate computation.

Upon consideration of the above, we find it appropriate to approve the tariff as filed.

Based on the foregoing, it is

ORDERED by the Florida Public Service Commission that GTE of Florida's tariff revision to offer Integrated Service Digital Network Primary Rate Interface is hereby approved. It is further

ORDERED that any protest of this Order shall be filed pursuant to the requirements set forth below. It is further
