Specifically, we would like to discuss issues such as, how is internet access provisioned by the various industry segments, such as internet service providers, LECs, and IXC's, including the rates paid; does internet usage cause network congestion, and, if so, to what extent can evolving technologies relieve such congestion; does the provision of voice over net services constitute telecommunications service for hire. The location of the workshop is room 152, Betty Easley Conference Center, 4075 Esplanade Way, Tallahassee, Florida. Any person who is unable to attend may participate via telephone. To participate by telephone, call the following number at 9:30 a.m., Thursday, February 27, 1997: (904) 414-6477 or Suncom Number (904) 994-6477.
