COMMISSION CLERK

I just got my morning mail and proof of payment, along with his letter, is there. He paid the full $118. It is OK to open a docket to grant him a voluntary cancellation, effective with today's date. Thanks.

There is a hand-written note on the payment record which says, "$118". However, I can't tell whether it is the amount that was originally due, or the amount that was actually paid. Let me check on that information and get back with you.

I wrote Mr. Trabulsy on May 26th about paying the 2003 RAF. He called me on June 9th and said he wanted to cancel his certificate. I advised him to pay a total of $118 ($3-2001; $65-2003; and $50-2004). He never said he was going to pay, instead he said it was not fair that he had to pay RAFs when he's no longer in business. He also asked me what would happen if he didn't pay everything. I told him that a docket would be established to cancel his certificate involuntarily and unpaid RAFs would be turned over to collections. He was unhappy. If he paid the full $118, yes, you can open a docket. If he did not pay $118, no do not open a docket. Let me know how much he paid. Thanks.

EGR We received payment record for this PATS company for 2001 RAFs with P/I. The letter requests the account be "made inactive". Do we open a docket to cancel?
