Regardless, the way the pleading was filed is the way it has to stay. If there is a dispute as to the filing, the company will need to file something clarifying the issue/mis-filing of the document.

Marguerite I see what you mean about these pages being duplicates of the pages immediately following them. I hadn't noticed that. I question whether either set of these pages should be included in a WAW certificate filing. Stan do you have any idea why MSM would file 2 copies of a draft report on the status of competition in the telecom industry (prepared by the telecom staff) along with its WAW application? It doesn't make sense to me.

It looks like the pages that you say are wrongly included are duplicates of the pages immediately following them. I have deleted these pages in the PDF DN, since they do appear to be duplicate pages, but they will remain with the original filing in the docket file.

In looking at the attachment more closely, pp. 1-117 are wrongly included. After page 117 are the materials that do go with this docket filing. Thanks.

I think the wrong attachment was scanned into this docket. The letter is right; the attachment is wrong and contains a long telecom document.
