I can readily see when someone says something that does not meet with your approval you "come apart at the seams"- You are very biased for the Utility, You ought be getting your paycheck directly from them-

I thought your handling of my testimony as well was "rank" The basis of what the increase is all about is "It is not about what FPL needs " it's about what they want" They went and "Played the commodity markets in Gas futures and lost 1.4 billion (as a former trader on the exchange REAL hedging does not incur that type of loss, as the commodity is secured for future use and gaming the market is not the issue" and that is the exact amount of their "WISH" list for increase-How interesting-? Let me ask you Ms Brown after 14 years of inadequately dealing with their tritium leak in the condenser units (as proven) ATLANTIC CIVIL

Do you just sit there and accept the "word " of the FPL attorney when he said we didn't do anything because we didn't want to do anything wrong WHAT KIND OF A RESPONSE IS THAT— AND YOU DID NOTHING 14 YEARS

Well Ms Brown the Japanese company operating Fukushima has found a solution to clearing the TRITIUM (a known footprint of atomic energy waste) so you can relay that to the very highly paid "do nothing" attorney-

If it was up to me- your performance is less than sterling I would have fired you immediately- The entire bunch of you have acted disgracefully
