PROCEEDINGS

1
2 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Item 14.

3 MR. WIGGINS: Commissioners, Item 14 is a
4 regrouping issue that originated in BellSouth's
5 original election of price regulation. In that order 6 the Commission required the company to roll back the 7 rates in Nolley-Navarre, Jensen Beach and West Palm
8 Beach exchanges to eliminate rate increases stemming 9 from regrouping.

10 The company filed a protest to this portion 11 of the order. Staff and the parties agree since the 12 issues in this case did not involve any contested 13 factual matters, that we will present all arguments at 14 agenda in lieu of an evidentiary proceeding.

15 Ms. Shelfer will present the primary and I 16 will present the alternative. Staff is prepared to 17 answer any questions.

18 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: We'll allow the parties 19 to make a presentation after you make your 20 introductions.

21 MS. BROWN: Commissioners, that's your 22 pleasure. If you would prefer to hear the oral 23 argument from the parties, we recommend five minutes.

24 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: For the parties. Okay.
25 Go ahead then, present the issues, and then we'll take

1 up the argument with BellSouth.

2 MS. SHELPER: Okay. Regarding the primary 3 recommendation, Staff believes that regrouping is an 4 increase in price based on the statute. The statute
5 states that when the ILEC selects caps that the rates
6 are capped. It doesn't distinguish whether it 7 regroups. It says that the rates are capped. And 8 that's Staff's position, that regrouping is an 9 increase in rates.

10 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: And the alternative?

11 MR. WIGGINS: Regarding the alternative, we 12 believe that regrouping is not a price increase under 13 the election of price regulation by BellSouth that's 14 in violation of Section 364.051 Florida Statutes. We 15 believe there's a change in the nature of the service
16 because the customers in the exchange that are moving
17 from one capped rate group to another capped rate
18 group. And these rates were in effect on July 1st, 19 1995.

20 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Thank you. BellSouth.

21 MR. CARVER: Thank you, Madam Chairman. My 22 name is Phillip Carver and I represent BellSouth.

23 Our position is pretty much consistent with 24 the Staff's alternative rec and I don't know that I'll 25 need the whole five minutes, but I do have four points

1 that I would like to make.

2 Of course, the issue is whether regrouping
3 constitutes a price increase.

4 First of all, I think what -- we have to 5 begin with is how to define a price increase. And it 6 seems to me that a price increase occurs when the 7 price for a particular service is raised, and that's 8 the only thing that truly constitutes a price 9 increase. What we have here is something that's very 10 different.

11 What we have here is a preexisting rate 12 system under which there are different categories of 13 local service, there are different rates associated 14 with these categories, and there are different local 15 calling scopes associated with each category. The 16 categories have not been changed and the prices
17 associated with the categories have not been changed.
18 The only thing that has occurred is that some 19 customers have moved from one category to another 20 category. And again, I don't believe that that 21 constitutes a price increase. Instead, what that 22 constitutes is a change in the type of service. And 23 what we've simply done is applied the historical 24 distinction between service with a smaller calling 25 scope and service with a larger calling scope and the 1 price changed with that.

2 But there is not a particular type of 3 service with a set calling scope or with a set pattern 4 of attributes that has changed. Instead there's just 5 a movement from one to the other.

6 The second point I want to make is that 7 regrouping is not just something that BellSouth made 8 up. It's not something that is unique in any way.
9 This is something that not only is long-standing, it's 10 specifically required by Commission rule. There is a 11 Commission rule that dictates that when customers move 12 into what should be a different rate group, that they 13 be regrouped. And the Staff primary rec is in effect
14 a recommendation that you find that when we follow 15 your rule on this point, we're also violating the 16 statute. And I'll come back to that in a minute, but 17 I think there is an inherent difficulty in there in 18 putting BellSouth or any local exchange company in a 19 position where if we regroup according to the primary 20 rec, we're violating the statute, and if we don't 21 regroup we're violating the rules of the Commission.
22 I think there needs to be a consistency there.

23 The third point that I want to make is that 24 if you accept the Staff primary rec, I believe that 25 you're creating a situation in which there will

1 necessarily be price discrimination that will violate
2 the statute.

3 Now certainly with a rewrite of 364 there
4 are a lot of different changes, but some things didn't 5 change. For example, the provisions of 364.08, .09
6 and .10 did not change, and collectively what these 7 provide is that there cannot be any undue
8 discrimination in the treatment of customers, either
9 in the services that they are provided or the prices
10 that they pay, so that similarly situated customers 11 have to be treated the same.

12 Now, in saying that I'm not suggesting that 13 all customers have to be charged the same price.
14 There are some rational reasons why they could be 15 charged different prices. And I guess the easiest 16 example of that is that basic local service for 17 businesses is charged at one rate and basic local 18 service for residential customers is at a different 19 rate. And that's perfectly acceptable under the 20 statute, even though the line that is used to provide 21 these two types of service functionally is the same.
22 The reason it's acceptable is because there's a 23 rational basis for making that distinction. And I
24 think that's really the test and that's really the 25 distinction between an acceptable distinction and a

1 form of undue discrimination and that's whether there
2 is a true basis to distinguish between the customers.

3 Now, if you accept the primary rec, what's 4 going to happen here is in some instances customers
5 with the same calling scope will be charged different 6 prices. In other instances customers with different
7 calling scope will be charged the same price. So 8 you're going to have differing treatment among 9 similarly situated customers. And I think the 10 question is whether that's permissible.

11 Our position is that it would only be 12 permissible, that is, it would be something other than 13 undue discrimination only if there was some rational
14 policy-based reason to draw that distinction. And you 15 just don't have that here. What you have basically is 16 historical happenstance. That if one group of 17 customers is regrouped a little before 1995 and 18 another should be regrouped a little bit afterward, if 19 you accept the primary rec, they would be treated 20 differently and they would pay different rates. And 21 again, I don't think that there is enough of a 22 justification there to make that distinction
23 appropriate under the statute.

24 And the last point that I want to make is 25 a --

1 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: What would be the 2 distinction? I mean I lose you there. What change 3 could occur that would be unreasonable or unfair in 4 the inverse? In other words, you're not going to 5 regroup someone downward, are you?

6 MR. CARVER: Under the current Commission
7 rules, yes, we do regroup downward, and we're required
8 to regroup downward. So that, for example, if there's 9 population moving out of an area and the calling scope 10 shrinks, then they would be moved downward. And we 11 apply that consistently. If the population increases
12 and the calling scope increases then they are moved up 13 or they are moved down.

14 And what we propose, and what we believe is 15 appropriate under our view here, is to apply that 16 consistently. If you accept a primary rec then you're 17 going to have the regrouping structure as it has been 18 for years applying to some customers, but those who 19 should have been regrouped under the Commission's rule 20 within the last year or two would not be regrouped.

21 So in other words, you would have customers 22 who are going to be paying different prices for the 23 same calling scope in some instances, and in other 24 instances you're going to have customers paying -- I
25 guess -- I'm getting confused here as I go through it.

1 There are two possibilities. One is the same price,
2 different calling scopes. The other is different
3 prices for the same calling scope and that will happen 4 necessarily if you have a situation where some are 5 regrouped and others aren't regrouped. And the more 6 time that goes on without regrouping, the more you'll 7 have that conflict arise. And again it would be 8 permissible if there were a basis for it. Like for 9 example, the basis for distinguishing between 10 residential customers and business customers. But in 11 this instance there's no reason to make that 12 distinction. There's nothing policy-based or 13 otherwise --

14 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Has Southern Bell ever 15 regrouped downward?

16 MR. CARVER: Pardon me?

17 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Have you ever -- when 18 you regrouped, have you ever gone downward?

19 MR. CARVER: Personally I don't know the 20 answer to that question. I could get an answer for 21 you, though. Be happy to do that.

22 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: I'd like that.

23 MR. CARVER: Okay.

24 I may have to supply that to you later but I 25 will certainly investigate that.

1 The last point I want to make is just a
2 practical one. As I understand the primary rec, it's 3 really premised on the idea that rate regrouping is an 4 anachronism and it is something that should no longer
5 exist. I don't necessarily subscribe to that 6 viewpoint. I don't think the time has come to do away 7 with it. But even if one were inclined to do that, 8 there are ways to approach that.

9 For example, have a generic docket to 10 investigate the Commission's rule on regrouping and to 11 look at whether it should be changed now or whether it 12 should be changed in the future. I think that would 13 be the appropriate action. Instead, the primary rec 14 simply said in effect leave the rule as it is but tell
15 parties they can't follow it because regrouping is now 16 in violation of the statute. I don't think that's 17 appropriate. And I also don't think it's appropriate 18 to flash cut so that there's no more regrouping now, 19 because for the reasons I've described, I think that 20 necessarily creates dissimilar treatment among 21 similarly situated customers. And I think we may have 22 an answer to your question, Commissioner Garcia.

23 MS. SIMS: Commissioners, Nancy Sims with 24 BellSouth.

25 We have not regrouped downward, but we would

1 regroup downward if the situation would dictate, you
2 know, a loss of subscribership in the area.

3 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: On the last point that 4 you raised, Mr. Carver you stated -- or maybe I was a 5 little confused, do you believe we have the legal 6 authority to stop this regrouping methodology and this 7 regrouping process?

8 MR. CARVER: Legally I think you can. And 9 I'm giving you my own interpretation here.

10 I think that the points Staff is making is 11 that regrouping is a creature of rate of return
12 regulation and it really has no place in a price
13 regulation environment. And I think if you accept 14 that, then the next step is to open a docket and to 15 investigate how to wind it down in a way that doesn't 16 entail discrimination toward anyone. Unfortunately -- 17 and I think it would necessarily require a rule 18 change. And looking at that prospectively is 19 certainly an option. And that's a process that we 20 would be pleased to participate in. The thing that we 21 really object to is leaving the rule as it is but 22 telling us to ignore it and at the same time simply 23 instantly terminating regrouping while leaving the 24 regrouping system that's been there historically in 25 place, because that's what creates a differing

1 treatment among the customers, and that's also what 2 creates a statutory problem.

3 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: So right now is it your 4 position that although we have the legal authority to 5 not have regrouping, we are somehow obligated anyway 6 under the law to continue to regroup, and is that 7 regrouping -- do we have to do that in perpetuity
8 until we change the rule?

9 MR. CARVER: I think the law is that we have 10 to regroup, so my first point is that we shouldn't be 11 put in a position where we either abide by the statute
12 or abide by the rule. I think there should be a 13 consistency. But do you have to allow regrouping in 14 perpetuity? No, I don't think so. But I think if you 15 want to do away with regrouping, then it needs to be 16 done on some prospective basis that ensures that all 17 customers are created equally, and that there is no 18 undue discrimination. And leaving the customers who 19 have been regrouped historically where they are and 20 abruptly stopping regrouping now I think does create 21 that distinction.

22 So, again, on a going-forward basis if you
23 want to have a docket to look at the ways in which you
24 could do away with regrouping or restructure rates
25 otherwise without undue discrimination I think that

1 would be permissible. But I think the particular way
2 that Staff has recommended you go about it, which is 3 to simply tell us that we can't regroup anymore
4 regardless of the fact that it's been done up to now, 5 that's what causes the legal problem.

6 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: If we were to make a
7 determination that the law did not allow regrouping
8 any more, the law that was passed in '95, but we had a 9 rule that was counter to the law, what would we do?
10 Is the rule preempted and would we have to follow the 11 law, or do we say, "Huh-oh, we have a rule that 12 violates the law but we've got to apply this law 13 anyway?"

14 MR. CARVER: I think you change your rule.

15 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: In the interim what do we 16 do? If there's a law out there that is in effect, and 17 that our rule violates the law, what would we do in 18 the interim? Do we keep applying it or do we --

19 MR. CARVER: I think if at some point you 20 determine that your rule violates the law, that they 21 are in conflict, then I think you have to follow the 22 statute and I think you have to do away with your rule 23 as quickly as you can if it's the view of the 24 Commission that it conflicts with the overriding
25 statutory authority. So if that's the view, then I

1 think you should move through that process quickly.

2 But the other thing I also want to emphasize 3 is that there's also a statutory mandate not to unduly
4 discriminate. And I think if you're going to do away 5 with regrouping in the future, you have to do it in 6 some ways so that all the customers who have been 7 regrouped are going to be treated the same as everyone 8 else.

9 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: I thought the law, in 10 terms of discriminate, was between the carriers?

11 MR. CARVER: No. 364.8, .9 and .10
12 basically say that similarly situated customers have 13 to be treated the same in terms of the services that 14 they are offered and the prices that they are charged.
15 So I believe that if they are treated differently, to 16 go back to my earlier example with residential and 17 business customers, there has to be a determination by 18 the Commission that there is a rational basis for that 19 distinction. Because if customers are indeed
20 similarly situated then they can't be charged 21 different prices.

22 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Could Staff address
23 that?

24 MS. BROWN: Yes, Commissioner. The primary
25 recommendation doesn't agree with that perspective.

1 First of all, we don't interpret those three 2 sections of the statute to mean that all similarly 3 situated customers have to be treated the same. Those 4 sections of the statute as we interpret them today, 5 considering that the law has changed, say that 6 similarly situated customers cannot be unduly
7 discriminated against, and then it becomes a question
8 of what is undue discrimination. We don't believe 9 that it is undue discrimination when a statute changes 10 and says rates don't go up after this point, that the 11 effect of that is that customers who were regrouped 12 earlier than the effective date of the statute, then 13 are being charged a higher price. We don't consider 14 that to be undue discrimination since it is the 15 statute and the law that created that price 16 discrepancy.

17 Eventually when rate regrouping goes away
18 all together, which we think it should do now, there 19 will be many customers who will be similarly situated 20 who will be paying different prices.

21 So we think the focus of the analysis of 22 undue discrimination in this competitive world is 23 different than it was for us when we were dealing with 24 the regulatory environment, where in a complete 25 monopoly situation, then customers who were in the

1 same place had to pay the same. In this environment
2 that's not necessarily true. And I guess the key for 3 me is that it is not unreasonable discrimination when 4 the statute is what has required this discrepancy.

5 I have a couple of other comments to make 6 if --

7 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: I'd love to hear them,
8 Ms. Brown.

9 MS. BROWN: All right. Let me see. The 10 conflict between the statute and the rule. Clearly 11 the statute controls in that circumstance. We are in 12 a situation in communications where we are changing a 13 lot of our rules, and revising and revamping them in 14 order to be consistent with the new law. That's been 15 going on for some time.

16 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Just for my 17 understanding, though, these rate groupings -- 18 obviously they were but I just want to do it -- were 19 created under a rate of return regulation.

20 MS. BROWN: Yes.

21 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: And were they part of 22 a whole proceeding, rate proceeding, or were they 23 created after and added into rates? How precisely 24 were they created and how were those distinctions -- 25 and what was the last --

1 MS. BROWN: I'll let the local historian
2 answer that question for you.

3 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Mr. Graham Bell.

4 (Laughter)

5 I also wanted to add to that, when was the 6 last time we looked at these groupings?

7 MR. D'HABSELER: The answer to the last
8 question is many years ago at one time the Commission
9 investigated the feasibility of having an uniform rate
10 grouping system throughout the state, and it turns out
11 that at that time they were concerned about revenue 12 requirements and we never could design a statewide 13 system that would produce the revenues that were 14 needed and at the same time have a grouping plan that 15 made sense.

16 Historically it's interesting that this is a 17 discrimination issue because I thought when it was 18 proposed it was a revenue enhancement type of 19 argument. But it was done in a generic proceeding to 20 adopt the grouping rules.

21 Now each company has a different grouping
22 plan. They are not all the same.

23 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: When was the last time
24 we looked at them for Southern Bell?

25 MR. D'HABSELER: It has to be in the

1 early -- well, no, I guess it would be in the '80s;
2 probably mid '80s.

3 What's interesting about all of this
4 argument is that they didn't say anything about Miami,
5 and that's top of the rate groups and it's capped.
6 Now, Miami could triple in population, theoretically,
7 and they couldn't increase the rates.

8 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Walter, don't make me
9 vote against it because of Miami, it creates problems 10 for me.

11 MS. BROWN: Commissioners, if I might just 12 go back to the question of statute versus rule. Where 13 the rule was created in a different regulatory 14 environment than the statute that exists now, we must 15 apply the statute and then either not apply the rule 16 if it's not applicable anymore, or go through our 17 procedure that we're going through to weed out the 18 rules that are no longer necessary, no longer 19 applicable.

20 I don't think that we need to open up a big 21 generic investigatory docket about whether we need to 22 keep rate regrouping now that the law has changed and 23 we're into this different environment, but it could be 24 that we would need to do something.

25 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Is that what

1 Mr. Carver was asking for? That if we didn't vote -- 2 that if we went with primary that's what we have to 3 do?

4 MR. CARVER: No, not at all. What I was 5 trying to say is I think the primary seems to be 6 premised on the notion that rate grouping has no place 7 in the current environment. And I disagree with that,
8 by the way. I was just saying that if you accept 9 that, the appropriate way to deal with it would be 10 prospectively in a generic proceeding as opposed to 11 having the sort of flash cut that's been recommended 12 in the primary. But I would not advocate that because 13 I believe at this time the rate grouping structure 14 continues to make sense and we should be allowed to 15 regroup.

16 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Could you expound upon
17 that? Why do you believe in the current environment 18 rate regrouping is still a good idea?

19 MR. CARVER: I think a lot of it has to 20 do -- there's on historical concept there of value and 21 the notion is the larger the calling scope the more 22 valuable the service, and, therefore, the higher 23 price. So customers in larger areas pay more;
24 customers in smaller areas pay less.

25 And again, it kind of loops back to the

1 discrimination point I made early. There may be some 2 point in the future at which BellSouth or other 3 companies under price regulation will want to redo the 4 rates and charge more consistent rates. But we can't 5 do that now. And to the extent that we have this 6 historical structure in place where people pay 7 according to a notion of benefit that's been endorsed 8 by the Commission, I think it's appropriate to apply 9 that consistently.

10 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Mr. Carver, what would 11 happen if tomorrow AT&T decided to provide local 12 service in Dade County and you lost half your 13 customers? Would thereby your rate grouping, you'd be 14 forced to drop rates for everyone in the Dade County 15 area which have the higher rates?

16 MR. CARVER: Well, that's a tough question 17 to answer off the top of my head.

18 I think competitively, yeah, we probably 19 would have to drop rates. But I think if we thought 20 that at that point -- well, if at that point we needed 21 to do away with the rate regrouping structure and 22 there was a Commission rule that prohibited it then we 23 would need to come back to the Commission and ask us 24 for relief that would allow us to make that decision.

25 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Let's say we voted for

1 the alternative today, and then tomorrow they started
2 offering local service in Dade County.

3 MR. CARVER: Yes.

4 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: And 50% of the people
5 went to AT&T. Would that mean that then the rate
6 grouping that those people are at, the customers you 7 kept, is incorrect?

8 MR. CARVER: I think I have a policy witness 9 who wants to take that question.

10 MS. SIMS: Commissioners, the rate groupings
11 are based on the total number of subscribers -- total 12 number of people that the customer can call, so it
13 wouldn't make any difference whether they were served 14 by AT&T or by Bell, unless for some reason they 15 determined that AT&T's customers were going to be long 16 distance for some reason.

17 But it's the total number of telephone
18 subscribers they can call, whether they be AT&T's,
19 ours or NCI's; it's the whole local exchange area
20 that's encompassed. It's not done by the total number 21 of our subscribers, it's the total number they can 22 contact.

23 MR. D'HAENSELBER: I would disagree with 24 that.

25 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Walter, hold on for a

1 second.

2 If it is, that raises an interesting point
3 because I was thinking about the same thing in terms
4 of the competitive market. But if it is based upon 5 the total people, or the customers in that scope, are 6 you -- and someone else actually would have those 7 particular customers, why should you get paid more for 8 a value of service and its somebody else's customer 9 base?

10 You're saying look at the calling scope,
11 here's the value that we have all of these customers 12 and here's your calling range, why shouldn't AT&T get 13 the benefit of that if they have 75% of your 14 customers? Why should you be paid that extra 15 incremental amount when you may have other providers 16 actually providing the service.

17 COMMISSIONER DEASON: The same reason we've 18 slaved over interconnection in arbitrations for the 19 last six months, and that's because we've got an 20 ubiquitous telephone network where everybody can call
21 everybody else, and it would depend upon the way AT&T 22 defined their local calling area. But if they 23 mimicked BellSouth's and had the same local calling 24 area, the customers would have the same base of people
25 that they could call, the same number of customers

1 they could call toll free, and that's the basis of the 2 grouping. It doesn't matter if they are an AT&T
3 customer or BellSouth customer, if they can call each 4 other on a toll free basis they are considered part of 5 that rate group, and that's how it would be based.

6 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: But who should get the 7 benefit of the $1.50? Should it be BellSouth?
8 Because they're saying this argument --

9 COMMISSIONER DEASON: We don't set AT&T's
10 rate, they'll set that rate themselves. We're talking 11 about what rate BellSouth would be able to apply. And 12 it seems to me under a rate group situation -- and 13 we're doing this under a situation of capping and 14 whether BellSouth has the authority when a group goes 15 up to increase that, and whether there's any 16 discrimination. It seems to me if they want to 17 respond to competition, as long as there's not undue
18 discrimination, and that's something as Ms. Brown 19 indicated, something we'd have to define, they'd be 20 free to lower rates in response to competition as long 21 as there's not undue discrimination. The issue before 22 us today is whether they can increase according to a 23 regrouping plan, and whether that is consistent with 24 the interpretation of the new law.

25 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Any other comments?

1 COMMISSIONER CLARK: Madam Chairman, I would 2 just point out that at the time we voted on this I
3 dissented because I thought this was a change in 4 service, not in rates. And it seems to me that 5 viewpoint has the added advantage of not raising the 6 issues of whether the law results in discriminatory
7 treatment of customers. Everybody who has the same 8 calling scope will have the same rates, and it won't 9 matter in terms of the timing of it.

10 MS. SHELPER: Commissioners, whenever you 11 say "calling scope" I think there's a difference. The 12 calling scopes will vary from exchange to exchange.

13 COMMISSIONER CLARK: Right. It's not 14 calling scope, it's the number of customers --
15 (Simultaneous conversation)

16 MS. SHELPER: -- it's the number of access 17 lines. And so Mr. Carver used that, too. The calling 18 scopes are not the same. Miami certainly has a 19 different calling scope than someone else in rate
20 group 13 within Florida. They may can call the same 21 number of access lines but the services vary, 22 depending on your calling scope, from exchange to 23 exchange and that would determine the regrouping.

24 The other thing I'd like to point out as far 25 as discriminatory, the customers within the exchange

1 all pay the same rate. There is no discrimination
2 within the exchange. So if one exchange regrouped and 3 the other didn't, discrimination would not occur among 4 customers.

5 And one other thing I wanted to point out
6 was that the statute also took away the Commission's 7 authority to order EAS. One could argue that that 8 would be discriminatory. There are customers now that 9 cannot come to the Commission and asked for extended 10 area service that used to could. We still have our 11 rules that require -- that state that customers can 12 come in and petition or either file a resolution
13 requesting the Commission to investigate EAS. Well, 14 that doesn't happen either but the rules are still 15 there.

16 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Let me bring that -- 17 and maybe, Martha, you can address this point. That's 18 the one problem I have with this. Is that the 19 legislature did not directly address this. In EAS 20 they did. They basically said we're going to put the 21 rates at a certain level and they didn't address this 22 grouping issue which already existed, which I think 23 lends some credence to Mr. Carver's argument saying it 24 was there, it should stay there. It was built into 25 the system. And we're just simply accessing that.

1 In terms of EAS it said to us that's not in.
2 That's not part of what the Commission can do from now
3 on. However, the rate regrouping it could.

4 And I wanted to -- tell me why I'm wrong or 5 why Mr. Carver's wrong specifically to that. Because 6 had the legislature believed it wanted to freeze rates 7 and not include the regrouping concept, wouldn't they 8 have addressed it?

9 MR. BROWN: I wasn't there, and have not 10 looked a lot at the legislative history.

11 The way I would interpret the fact that they 12 don't specifically mention it is that they assumed 13 they did not need to. In the section that they used 14 on -- when they said rates will be capped, they meant 15 all rates. And if they had meant -- except not rates 16 that are established by regrouping, they would have 17 put it in. But that's about the best that I can tell 18 you. Maybe Walter can --

19 MR. D'HANSELER: Commissioner, being 20 perfectly blunt, there was a big issue with the LECs 21 EAS, historically, so, you know, it was an issue that 22 legislators were even aware of and had been involved
23 in, where regrouping was never that big a deal. So it 24 would surprise me that legislators were even aware of 25 it unless somebody pointed it out to them. Where EAS

1 I'm sure a lot of them were familiar with the 2 problems.

3 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Walter, I interrupted you
4 a little earlier. You were going to respond to -- I
5 think Bell's argument that this is measured by number 6 of customers.

7 MR. D'ARSELBER: Right. You have to 8 remember it's not in the rules the grouping bands; 9 that is in the individual company's tariffs and they 10 were approved for Southern Bell. So I don't think it 11 makes any difference how many customers AT&T has, what 12 matters is the number of customers that BellSouth or 13 Southern Bell has. And I guess in your example, if 14 they lost 50% of the subscribers in Miami and you 15 follow this thing to its logical conclusion they would 16 probably have to reduce rates because they would be in 17 a different grouping band.

18 COMMISSIONER DEASON: I think we're raising 19 an issue now that's not before us as to whether if 20 we're going to keep -- allow grouping and whether 21 we're going to -- how we're going to determine when a 22 company loses enough customer base that would 23 otherwise fall in a lower group, how we're going to 24 apply that. I think we've probably got a difference 25 of opinion.

1 The issue in front of us today as to whether 2 the company -- if they are inclined, if they can 3 increase rates -- and I don't want to label that 4 increasing rates because I don't think it's a rate
5 increase. I think it's applying the appropriate rate 6 to a customer who is in a different rate class and 7 rates are not being increased and is not in violation
8 of a statute. But that is the limited issue in front 9 of us. I don't think it's a question of whether we 10 need to retain groupings and regroup or it's a 11 question of how we respond to competition if there is 12 competition in an area, and that question is not in 13 front of us about an a company losing enough customer
14 share that their own subscribers would otherwise fall 15 in a different rate group. I think the question is 16 more limited than that. I think that's what we have 17 to answer.

18 MR. D'HASSELER: And I agree with you. The 19 rest is probably rhetoric, that, you know, through 20 out.

21 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: I brought it up.
22 Clearly Walter is not doing it for the benefit of his 23 argument. I'm the one that brought up the issue.

24 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Let me ask Ms. Shelfer
25 another question. With the respect to the way that

1 Issue 1 is framed, it's my understanding, or at least 2 the analysis -- when I read your analysis I hear you 3 saying that rate regrouping should be a thing of the 4 past and that the issue we're addressing now is 5 whether or not under the new law we should be 6 regrouping at all. Is that -- whether legal or 7 Staff's analysis? Either legal or technical Staff.

8 MS. SHELPER: I'm not sure I understand your 9 question. Could you repeat it, please?

10 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: A question of whether or 11 not we should be regrouping -- your question or your 12 issue seems to me to suggest that we should not do 13 rate regrouping under the new law, period. Is that 14 true?

15 MS. SHELPER: I would say based on the 16 statute when it says that the rates are capped they 17 are capped, so regrouping -- they are there. The 18 prices are capped, but as far as being able to regroup
19 I think it's a violation of the statute. The price 20 increase, the customer sees the price increase.

21 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: So you think our rule 22 violates the statute and that the rule should be 23 either changed, or omitted or revised?

24 MS. SHELPER: The rule would only violate it 25 for price cap LECs. You still have some rate of 1 return LECs.

2 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: I see. So it at least 3 should be revised as it relates to price cap LECs, and 4 you get there under your interpretation of what the 5 law requires.

6 MS. SCHLPER: Yes, ma'am.

7 MR. CARVER: If I could just add one thing
8 on the increase issue, I think we spent a lot of time 9 talking about the issue, too, in the docket which is 10 the discrimination issue. And I just want to go back 11 to the increase issue because I think that's really 12 the threshold issue and probably the most important 13 one; the question of whether changing a customer's 14 rate as a result of moving from one group to another 15 is a price increase.

16 And I think, again, there is a historical 17 structure in place whereby the Commission has 18 recognized that different rate groups have different
19 charges associated with them. So when a customer 20 moves from one rate group to another rate group, the 21 nature of their service changes. By the Commission 22 rules that is enhanced version of the service and they 23 are moving from a a less valuable version of the 24 service to a more valuable version of the service.
25 And I think by definition that can't be a price

1 increase. Again, I believe that a price increase is 2 when you have a particular service and the service 3 does not change at all but the price associated with 4 that service increases.

5 Now, to apply that to our situation, let's 6 say if you had five rate groups and we raised the 7 price for each of those five rate groups, then that 8 would certainly be a prohibitive price increase but 9 that's not what we have here. We have rate groups 10 that are defined the way they've always been defined; 11 the scope hasn't changed, the price that it is 12 associated with has not changed. Customers have 13 simply moved from one to the other. And I think to 14 argue that that's a price increase, is necessarily to 15 argue that the Commission is wrong in approving the 16 rate regrouping structure that's always been there.
17 But the point is that exists, and a determination has 18 been made in the past that that's based on value and 19 therefore those constitute different categories of 20 service,

21 And if you accept that, then it's just not a 22 price increase because it's not an increase in a given 23 service; instead it's a change from one variation of 24 local service to another variation.

25 MS. BROWN: Commissioner, if I might address

1 that point, it isn't that the Commission has been 2 wrong in establishing rate regrouping or in 3 determining that there is an increased value of 4 service in being able to call more access lines in 5 order to protect the revenue situation of regulated 6 monopoly companies, it's just that the world has 7 changed and the old -- I think it's difficult, 8 probably, to put -- to put ourselves in that 9 perspective a little bit because they are so used to 10 the old ways of looking at things. But a price 11 increase in a competitive world is a price increase, 12 however you call it, and value of service is maybe not 13 the key anymore; cost of service is the key. And 14 these are the phrases and the ways of thinking that 15 the statute was trying to get at when it established 16 the rate cap. That's all.

17 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Thank you.

18 COMMISSIONER DEASON: I'd like to make a 19 motion.

20 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Are we all finished?
21 Vonnie, did you have something you wanted to say. You 22 looked like you did.

23 MR. WIGGINS: I just tend to disagree. And 24 I disagree because until rate groups as a whole, the 25 system that we're using, goes away, and we do not know

1 what competition is going to bring, I think it's a 2 change in the nature of the service. Because you're 3 going from one capped rate group to another capped
4 rate group. The rates for these groups have not 5 changed since July 1st of 1995.

6 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Thank you.

7 COMMISSIONER DEASON: Are there other 8 questions. I move we approve Staff alternative to 9 Issues 1 and 2.

10 COMMISSIONER CLARK: Second.

11 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: There's been a motion and 12 a second. Any further discussion? Seeing none, all 13 of those in favor signify by saying "aye."

14 COMMISSIONER CLARK: Aye.

15 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Aye.

16 COMMISSIONER DEASON: Aye.

17 COMMISSIONER KIRSLING: Aye.

18 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Opposed "nay."

19 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Is there another 20 recommendation?

21 COMMISSIONER KIRSLING: I move Staff
22 primary.

23 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Is there a second?

24 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: I'll second.

25 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Any discussion? Seeing

1 none, all those in favor signify by saying "aye."

2 Aye.

3 COMMISSIONER GARCIA: Aye.

4 COMMISSIONER KIBSLING: Aye.

5 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Opposed, "nay."

6 COMMISSIONER DEASON: Nay.

7 COMMISSIONER CLARK: Nay.

8 CHAIRMAN JOHNSON: Show the primary approved

9 on a three-to-two vote. Thank you very much.
