WATER SURCHARGE POSITION PAPER

BACKGROUND:

In 1993 the Public Service Commission granted a rate increase and authorized uniform rates.

Decision was appealed by some customer groups and the appeals court reversed the decision on 4/6/95.

October 1995, Public Service Commission changed rate structure to modified stand alone and required Florida Water Services to refund to these customers winning the appeal above but did not allow company to surcharge other customers. (Court did not require a refund)

Florida Water Services appealed that decision and the court agreed with FWS on June 17, 1997, saying if there was to be a refund it must come from customers who benefited from uniform rates.

PRESENT:

In late October (4 months after court decision) the Public Service Commission notified all customers of their share of a potential refund or surcharge.

Public Service Commission said they will consider five options, four of which would require a refund over varying periods of time, with or without interest, and the fifth would not require a refund because the rates have been changed prospectively.

Public Service Commission said they would decide on 12/15/97 (less than two months after notifying customers).

In the Sugar Mill community of New Smyrna Beach 638 customers of Florida Water Services would be required to pay an average of $568 each. The customers of about 40 other communities would be required to pay amounts ranging from $18.00 to $5,509. Receiving refunds would be six communities with an average refund of about $70.00.

Sugar Mill residents already pay among the highest rates for water and sewer in the state of Florida ($77.76 for 5,000 gallons). The facilities are in disrepair and the water quality is marginal.

It should be noted from the above summary that these customers subject to a possible surcharge did nothing to bring on this sad state of affairs. The credit belongs to the Public Service Commission and the Company.

ACTION AND RECOMMENDATION:

Sugar Mill Association has gathered over 500 signatures on a petition to the Public Service Commission protesting a surcharge.

Representatives of the Association have contacted their legislative representatives and the Governor's office.

The Association will take advantage of legal representation made available by the consumer representative of the legislature to intervene in this matter.

WE RECOMMEND THE FOLLOWING:

1) The Public Service Commission should choose their option #2 requiring no refund.

2) Although there appears to be a negative legal precedent in the past, a thorough evaluation should be made of the possible appeal of the court's 1997 decision.

3) The 12/15/97 arbitrary decision date should be extended into 1998. (No hearings have been held)

4) Should a refund be required, the Public Service Commission should be certain that uncollectible surcharges be the company's responsibility.

Don't give us refunds, say some in Deltona

☐ They don't like a utility's plan to collect surcharges from some customers.

By Maria M. Perotin

OF THE SENTINEL STAFF

DELTONA — Even though a water company may pay refunds to some Deltona customers, members of a local group this week said they wouldn't want the money if it came from the pockets of other residents.

Several members of the Deltona Civic Association opposed a plan to collect surcharges from some Florida Water Services customers in order to give refunds to others. The organization had invited the utility's spokesman, Tracy Smith, to a meeting Thursday night to explain a 4-year-old legal battle that could lead to the unprecedented exchange of money next month.

In Deltona, 23,765 Florida Water Services customers could see average refunds of $53. Of those, 4,684 customers who receive both water and sewer services would get billed about $416, meaning they'd owe the utility $363.

Resident Sue Sims said most of the Deltona residents who are hooked up to sewers are senior citizens in the older sections of town.

"For them to get hit with a surcharge would be catastrophic to their budget," Sims said.

The state Public Service Commission is considering the money shuffle as a remedy to a previous rate structure that courts determined gave some customers an unfair advantage. If the agency follows through, about $14 million would swap hands between 100,000 utility customers, Smith said.

About half of those customers face surcharges ranging from a few bucks to hundreds of thousands of dollars, while the others would receive refunds of a similar range.

Smith, whose company opposes imposing surcharges or paying refunds, urged association members to share their opinions with the commission before a Dec. 15 hearing on the case.

"We want you folks to be fully aware," Smith said. "It's important for everybody to contact the commission."

We, the undersigned, each representing one of the 620 households in the Sugar Mill community in New Smyrna Beach are long standing customers of Southern States Utilities and Florida Water Services. We strongly protest the proposed surcharge because the Public Service Commission approved a rate structure which was later challenged in court. At the time we supported your rate determination and now surcharges and rebates are totally unwarranted and unjustifiable. We urge the Public Service Commission to do nothing and to allow the current rates to continue. Otherwise the issue should be resolved between the Public Service Commission and Florida Water Services shareholders.

TO: The Florida Public Service Commission RE: Docket #920199-WS

We, the undersigned, each representing one of the 620 households in the Sugar Mill community in New Smyrna Beach are long standing customers of Southern States Utilities and Florida Water Services. We strongly protest the proposed surcharge because the Public Service Commission approved a rate structure which was later challenged in court. At the time we supported your rate determination and now surcharges and rebates are totally unwarranted and unjustifiable. We urge the Public Service Commission to do nothing and to allow the current rates to continue. Otherwise the issue should be resolved between the Public Service Commission and Florida Water Services shareholders.

We, the undersigned, each representing one of the 620 households in the Sugar Mill community in New Smyrna Beach are long standing customers of Southern States Utilities and Florida Water Services. We strongly protest the proposed surcharge because the Public Service Commission approved a rate structure which was later challenged in court. At the time we supported your rate determination and now surcharges and rebates are totally unwarranted and unjustifiable. We urge the Public Service Commission to do nothing and to allow the current rates to continue. Otherwise the issue should be resolved between the Public Service Commission and Florida Water Services shareholders.
