Dear Ms. Bayo:

I spoke with Mr. Tom Williams yesterday and he suggested that I forward a letter to your attention. OCOM CORPORATION d/b/a Cellular Long Distance Company ("OCOM"), currently holds a certificate for authority to provide interexchange telecommunications service between points within the State of Florida and currently provides cellular long distance in certain parts of Florida. CoreComm Newco, Inc. ("CoreComm") is in the process of purchasing most of the assets of OCOM, including, but not limited to, OCOM's Florida operations. This purchase will be seamless to Florida consumers. CoreComm will operate under the same name, consumers will be able to purchase the same services at the same rates from CoreComm as they currently purchase from OCOM. Additionally, the same management and personnel will operate CoreComm as those who operated OCOM. We expect this transaction to become effective on or about June 1, 1998.

Please acknowledge this change in control at your earliest convenience. Please let me know if you have any questions regarding this transaction. Thank you in advance for your cooperation.

Sincerely,

Pamela S. Miller
Assistant General Counsel
