Dear Ms. Bayo:

I am very surprised to have received the enclosed delinquent notice for the 2000 regulatory assessment fee. I have made numerous, repeated attempts over the last several years to communicate to the Public Service Commission that I am not a telephone vendor and have requested that the PSC cancel the license and close the account. I have never operated any telephone service of any kind and never started a business operation. Furthermore, the PSC notified me last year that the account was in arrears due to this same regulatory fee and a judgement has taken place by the commission. Based on the threatening letters I received from legal service and the judgement by the commission, I would expect that by now the PSC would have canceled the license and deemed the case inactive.

Once again, please cancel the license / certificate and cease the notices and threats. Please discontinue sending meeting notices, or any other communication regarding the activities of the Public Service Commission.

If any part of this request is unclear or there are any further comments, I can be reached at (813) 247-3934 during daytime hours.

Yours truly,

Alex K. Levy
