I can simply print this e-mail and document-number it for 011375, as a means of noting for the record the docket should have included collocation.

Kay/Hong,

The underlying docket in this case, 011375-TP, is shown in CMS as being an interconnection, unbundling, and resale agreement. I looked at the agreement in question and determined it also included collocation, but at the time a correction was not made.

After discussing this with Sally Simmons, she and I agree an easy way to facilitate a correction (to 011375-TP's description) is by placing a copy of the transmittal letter from 030053-TP into the file for the underlying docket.

Can we do this by way of this e-mail?

Jeff Bates
