Docket No. 030869-TL

Filed November 17, 2003

SUPPLEMENT TO CITIZENS' NOVEMBER 10, 2003 NOTICE OF INTENT TO USE
CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION AND REQUEST FOR RULING ON CONFIDENTIALITY

The Citizens of Florida file this supplement to the Notice of Intent to Use Confidential Information and Request for Ruling on Confidentiality filed on November 10, 2003, and state the following.

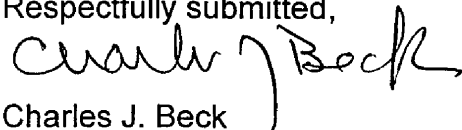

1. On November 10, 2003, Citizens filed a notice of intent to use five pages of documents provided by Verizon Florida, Inc. (Verizon) in response to discovery requests. Citizens believe that Verizon intends to rely on their request for confidential classification and motion for protective order filed on October 28, 2003, in order to prevent public disclosure of the important information contained in these documents.

2. Verizon's request for confidential classification and motion for protective order is wholly inadequate as a basis to prohibit public disclosure of the information contained in these documents. Verizon simply provides a boilerplate conclusion that information on almost two hundred pages of documents is confidential. It makes no attempt to show why the specific information contained in the five pages cited in Citizens' notice of intent is confidential. Instead, Verizon only makes a general claim that could be applied to almost any information it supplies.

3. The information contained in these five pages of documents discloses essential information about the anticipated impact of Verizon's petition on customers' bills. Verizon had this information prior to filing its petition, yet it failed to disclose it to the public. The information contained in these documents should be disclosed to the public, and Verizon has not substantiated its claim for confidentiality. Citizens accordingly request the Prehearing Officer to rule that the information contained on these five pages of documents should be disclosed to the public.

Respectfully submitted,

Charles J. Beck
