FPSC-COMMISSION CLERK

BEFORE THE FLORIDA PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION

In re: Petition for arbitration of amendment to interconnection agreements with certain competitive local exchange carriers and commercial mobile radio service providers in Florida by Verizon Florida Inc.

DOCKET NO. 040156-TP

Filed: February 24, 2005

PETITION TO INTERVENE

Intervenors, XO Florida, Inc. and Allegiance Telecom of Florida, Inc., pursuant to Rules 25-22.039, F.A.C. and 28-106.205, F.A.C., hereby petition the presiding officer for leave to intervene in this proceeding, and state:

1. The name and address of the agency affected by this Petition is the Florida Public Service Commission (the "Commission"). The PSC Docket number is 040156-TP.
2. The Intervenors are XO Florida, Inc. and Allegiance Telecom of Florida, Inc.
3. XO Florida, Inc. ("XO Florida") is a Washington corporation authorized to do business in Florida. XO Florida's address is 11111 Sunset Hills Road, Reston, Virginia 20190. XO Florida is a telecommunications carrier, as defined by 47 U.S.C. §153(44). XO Florida operates pursuant to Commission certificate 5648 to provide competitive local exchange telecommunications services in the State of Florida.
4. Allegiance Telecom of Florida, Inc. ("Allegiance") is a Delaware corporation authorized to do business in Florida. Allegiance is a subsidiary of XO Communications, Inc. Allegiance's address is 9201 North Central Expressway, Dallas, Texas 75231. Allegiance operates pursuant to Commission certificate 5648 to provide competitive local exchange telecommunications services in the State of Florida.

5. The name, address, and telephone number of the Intervenor's representatives shall be those of the undersigned, which shall be the addresses for service purposes during the course of this proceeding.

6. This docket involves a Petition for Arbitration filed by Verizon, Florida, Inc. ("Verizon"). The petition seeks arbitration of the terms and conditions of an amendment to Verizon's interconnection agreements with Florida competitive local exchange carriers ("CLECs") to implement the Federal Communications Commission's ("FCC's") Triennial Review Order ("TRO") and its Triennial Review Remand Order ("TRRO") regarding Verizon's ongoing obligation to provide unbundled network elements ("UNEs") pursuant to Sections 251 and 252 of the federal Telecommunications Act of 1996 ("Telecom Act").

7. The Intervenor's substantial interests will be affected by the Commission's action regarding the nature and scope of allowable amendments to Verizon interconnection agreements with CLECs doing business with Verizon in Florida. The Intervenor will lose any meaningful opportunity to exercise their rights under the current interconnection agreements with Verizon if the Commission does not permit intervention, and does not allow the Intervenor to submit testimony and briefs to the Commission regarding Verizon's decision to terminate the provision of UNEs under the auspices of the FCC's TRO and TRRO decisions.

8. The Intervenor was named as a party to Verizon's related February 20, 2004 arbitration petition in this docket. The Commission dismissed Verizon's original petition for failure to meet the procedural requirements established in Section 252 (b)(2) of the Telecommunications Act, and granted leave for Verizon to refile its Petition, including specified information concerning the parties, the issues in dispute and the relevant portion of the parties' interconnection agreements. (See Order No. PSC-04-0671-FOF-TP, p.6).

9. On September 9, 2004, Verizon filed a revised Petition for Arbitration. Neither of the Intervenors was included as a party to Verizon's September 9, 2004 Petition. Verizon's expressed reason for its failure to include the Intervenors in its September 9, 2004 Petition was its position that it can unilaterally cease providing certain UNEs to CLECs because those UNEs are no longer subject to the unbundling obligations under 47 U.S.C. §251(c)(3) and 47 C.F.R. Part 51. (See Verizon Petition at page 2). Verizon's belief is incorrect.

10. The interconnection agreements between Verizon and the Intervenors provide that Verizon and the Intervenors are to modify their respective Agreements to bring them into compliance with any subsequent statute, regulation, rule, ordinance, judicial decision or administrative ruling. If Verizon and the Intervenors fail to agree on the appropriate "change in law" modifications to their Agreements within sixty days of a change in law, either party may seek Commission resolution. Further, Section 252 of the Telecom Act and paragraph 233 of the Triennial Review Remand Order make it clear that the FCC intends the Triennial Review Remand Order to be implemented through the "change of law" process outlined in carriers' interconnection agreements. Thus, Verizon cannot unilaterally modify the UNE pricing, terms and conditions of its existing interconnection agreements with the Intervenors, which is precisely the effect of Verizon's decision to exclude the Intervenors from this arbitration.

11. Over the past several months, the Intervenors (through counsel) and Verizon have engaged in negotiations in an effort to incorporate the changes in UNE unbundling obligations adopted in the TRO and the Triennial Review Remand Order into their Agreements. Those discussions have not been successful. Intervenors have also tried to get Verizon to comply with its obligations to perform routine network modifications and to permit commingling as required by the TRO. Although the Intervenors remain willing to negotiate in good faith with Verizon to address the issues affected by the TRO and the Triennial Review Remand Order, the expedited procedural schedule imposed by the Commission in this Docket (Order No. PSC-04-1236-PCO-TP) precludes the Intervenors from fully implementing that "change in law" process set forth in their Agreements without having their interests substantially affected by the outcome of this proceeding. As such, the Intervenors will lose any meaningful opportunity to exercise their rights under their Agreements with Verizon if the Commission does not permit immediate intervention in this docket.

12. The Intervenors' substantial interests will be affected by the Commission's decision on the issues in this docket because that decision will inevitably affect the manner in which Verizon will implement the TRO and Triennial Review Remand Order in its interconnection agreements with CLECs that are not parties to this proceeding. The Intervenors recognize that they are entitled to file a separate action against Verizon to resolve these issues as between the Intervenors and Verizon. However, allowing the Intervenors to participate in this proceeding will advance the interests of administrative economy, and will eliminate the need for the Commission to review numerous individual arbitration petitions as to similar interconnection agreement issues. Thus, parties seeking TRO and Triennial Review Remand Order related amendments to their interconnection agreements with Verizon should be allowed to participate in the pending arbitration proceeding.

13. No other current party to this arbitration will adequately represent the Intervenors' rights and interests in this matter because, among other reasons, the Intervenors must be parties in order for their interconnection agreements to be amended.

WHEREFORE for the reasons set forth herein, XO Florida, Inc. and Allegiance Telecom of Florida, Inc. petition the Commission to allow them to intervene in this proceeding, and to participate as a full party of record in order to protect their interests under their interconnection agreements with Verizon.

Respectfully Submitted.
