"EXHIBIT C"

J.C. Communications ("J.C.C.") is a "Long Distance National and International Wholesaler" with more than three years doing business around the world.

The Company has expanded at a steady pace in order to have no debts; therefore, their entire infrastructure is paid and the company is free of debt, other than their current operating credit.

The management of J.C.C. has decided that they do not possess the desire to develop within their present economic structure a program that can accelerate their growth. Therefore, the Board of Directors of J.C.C. has decided not to seek new Capital or Venture Capital that would dilute their present participation and control - but instead offer a contractual alliance with Maintrust Telephone Companies, Corp. ("Maintrust") which has been created at the request of J.C.C. to provide the marketing abilities, experience, and wherewithal, required to propel the business of J.C.C.

Maintrust has -at this point in time before the commencement of operations (which is pending from Florida State CLEC License) have made specially design marketing plans that will allow the rapid deployment of a proprietary "Business Process Patent" that may be conducive to integrate into a "System of Market Penetration" that will satisfy the growth objectives of the present contractual alliance between J.C.C. and Maintrust

"EXHIBIT E"

The main reasons that make new entrepreneurial efforts fail, as shown by US Marketing Research Profile in their report on this matter, is that at the time of preparing a business plan, the management fails in taking into account factors that latter on, and in real time, proved to be the decisive reasons for the failure. The number of samples contained in the US Marketing Research Profile is so large that the probability error of the statistic is less than one percent.

When we prepared our business plan, we were already aware of this fact; a lifetime in business, with success, leaves a mark difficult to forget. We have anticipated the known and even the unexpected events that could endanger the health of our company and limited its growth. Doing this, we have also made provisions to take all necessary steps to correct any deviation from our original plan and make new plans that are responsive to the actual events.

We have taken into account start costs that will exceed more than sufficiently what is required to get the business started, leaving contingency reserve to match real demand.

Only when our company has reached the above milestone, we would be in the position to decide if we could go ahead with the present capital structure and reinvest our profits, or if we have to go to our investment bankers to seek the required capital to grow at a pace that would be in accordance to the objectives of our business plan.

The above succinct overview of our company vision of the future, triggered the development of a proprietary "Business Process Patent", that may be conducive to integrate into a System of Rapid Market Development.

EXHIBIT F
David Rabinsky

David Rabinsky graduate at Havana University as a Civil Engineer in 1953, at twenty-four years of age

From 1954 to 1960 worked in Cuba for Frederick Snare Corporation, an American construction company, Rabinsky raised from the ranks of site Engineer to Project Manager. His duties consisted in design, estimating, cost control and supervision of the construction of maritime work and electrical plants.

Mr. Rabinsky left Cuba after Castro's revolution and continued to work for Frederick Snare and other construction and engineering companies in New York City, from 1960 to 1970.

During this time, Mr. Rabinsky participated worldwide in the design, estimating, cost control, and supervision of a wide variety of engineering jobs, ranging from high rising buildings to chemical and petrochemical plants and from carbon to atomic power electric plants.

The duties of Mr. Rabinsky were at high-management level and placed emphasis in keeping costs as projected. Rabinsky's creative cost saving techniques deserved high bonuses and commendations.

During 1970 he relocated in Miami Florida where he founded Miami Forming, Inc and International Contractors of Miami, Inc. These two companies performed construction in Miami-Dade and built more than 30 millions of square feet of high rise buildings, shopping centers, schools, etc.

The two companies have been closed in good standing.

Since then, Mr. Rabinsky has been a consultant in the area of development of commercial and multifamily developments.

Rabinsky's creative cost saving techniques has been applied in other industrial and financial fields.

EXHIBIT F1

José Clemente Vivanco

José Clemente Vivanco, Ph.D., Chairman of the Board of Media2life, Inc., was born in Havana, Cuba, in October 27, 1929, son of a Judge of the Court of Appeals and grandson of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Cuba. As he finished his postgraduate studies in Philosophy at "Universidad de la Habana" (Havana University,) Dr. Vivanco pursued a career in the business world, as impresario of world-renowned Prima Ballerina Alicia Alonso. Contemporaneously, he wrote his doctoral thesis on Epistemology, launching what would become a lifetime interest in the source and complexities of human knowledge, and preparing him for today's confluence of intellect and technology.

After receiving his doctoral degree in 1952, Dr. Vivanco became Cuba Sales Director of U.S. Life, implementing new and avant-garde methods of marketing life insurance, and eventually founded the Instituto Cubano de Ventas (Cuban Institute of Marketing) in Havana.

After exile to the U.S. in 1959, Dr. Vivanco started American Products and Market Development in Miami, Florida, in 1963, the company became very successful franchising office products. From there he went to Waco, Texas, November, 1966, to accept a challenge made by the young multimillionaire Paul J. Meyer, President of Success Motivation Institute (SMI), who appointed him Director of the International Division of the Institute. At SMI, Dr. Vivanco was able to influence and change the lives of thousands of people around the world.

Later, as a real-estate broker in Miami, Dr. Vivanco assumed the position of Vice-President and Director of Florida Atlantic Investments, managers of a real-estate private investment fund headed by the Fanjul Group (the world's largest privately owned sugar-producing concern.) During his tenure, which began in 1979 and ended in 1984, he consistently delivered high returns to investors, achieving an overall thirty-five percent Internal Rate of Return (IRR.)

Dr. Vivanco has been an independent consultant since 1984. Among his clients is The Wilmington Institute in Dallas, Texas, of which he is also an active member. It was in that capacity, in 1994, that he met and became an adviser and confidant of Cecil (Cec) Heftel, then Chairman and principal stockholder of Heftel Broadcasting Company. As a result of that relationship, and given Dr. Vivanco's passion for the Internet, the radio talk show "El Sabelotodo" was initiated in November, 1996. Describing the show, Jorge Davila, of The Miami Herald, said in 1997:

"Dr. Vivanco, 'El Sabelotodo,' is a very imposing character with extensive education, culture and a wealth of information at his fingertips, which also portrays self-assurance in his commentaries with humor, agility and concise answers during the show. His radio personality is one of an extreme enthusiast of the Internet who at times is visionary. I predict his dream will change the method by which e-commerce will impact our society in the next century."

His early interest on VOIP is now being crystallized in his newest entrepreneurial effort.
