4. What are the appropriate projected environmental cost recovery amounts for the period January 2008 through December 2008?

FPL: The total environmental cost recovery amount, adjusted for revenue taxes is $43,765,627. This amount consists of $44,712,161 of projected environmental cost for the period January through December 2008, net of the prior period true-up amounts and taxes. (DUBIN)

5. What depreciation rates should be used to develop the depreciation expense included in the total environmental cost recovery true-up amounts to be collected during the period January 2008 through December 2008?

FPL: The depreciation rates used to calculate the depreciation expense should be the rates that are in effect during the period the allowed capital investment is in service as approved by the FPSC. (DUBIN)

6. What are the appropriate jurisdictional separation factors for the projected period January 2008 through December 2008?

FPL: Energy Jurisdictional Factor 98.58121%
CP Demand Jurisdictional Factor 98.76048%
GCP Demand Jurisdictional Factor 100.00000% (DUBIN)

	(DUBIN)

8. What should be the effective date of the new environmental cost recovery factors for billing purposes?

FPL: The new environmental cost recovery factors should become effective with customer bills for January 2008 through December 2008. This will provide 12 months of billing on the environmental cost recovery factors for all customers. (DUBIN)

COMPANY-SPECIFIC ISSUES

9. Should FPL be allowed to recover costs associated with its proposed St. Lucie Cooling Water System Inspection and Maintenance Project?

FPL: Yes. FPL must inspect and, as necessary, maintain the cooling water system at the St. Lucie Plant so that it remains in compliance with the federal Endangered Species Act, 16 U.S.C. Section 1531. (LABAUVE)

10. How should the newly proposed environmental costs for the St. Lucie Cooling Water System Inspection and Maintenance Project be allocated to the rate classes?

FPL: Capital costs for the St. Lucie Cooling Water System Inspection and Maintenance Project should be allocated to the rate classes on an average 12 CP demand and 1/13th energy basis. Operating and maintenance costs should be allocated to the rate classes on an average 12 CP demand basis. (DUBIN)

11. Should FPL be allowed to recover costs associated with its proposed Martin Plant Drinking Water System Compliance Project?

FPL: Yes. The Consent Order entered into by FPL and the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (FDEP) on September 22, 2006 requires FPL to implement a corrective action plan at the Martin Plant, which involves the implementation of a pilot test plan to determine the most cost-effective method to achieve compliance of levels of four certain trihalomethanes (THMs) and haloacetic acids (HAA5s) in the drinking water system. (LABAUVE)

12. How should the newly proposed environmental costs for the Martin Plant Drinking Water System Compliance Project be allocated to the rate classes?

FPL: Capital costs for the Martin Plant Drinking Water System Compliance Project should be allocated to the rate classes on an average 12 CP demand and 1/13th energy basis. Operating and maintenance costs should be allocated to the rate classes on an average 12 CP demand basis. (DUBIN)

13. Should FPL be allowed to recover costs associated with its proposed Low Level Radioactive Waste Storage Project?

FPL: Yes. The Low Level Radioactive Waste Storage Project is required due to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's (NRC) requirements and restrictions on how low level radioactive (LLW) waste may be disposed of, combined with FPL's loss of access to the LLW disposal facility in Barnwell South Carolina as a result of new provisions of South Carolina law that take effect on June 30, 2008. (LABAUVE)

14. How should the newly proposed environmental costs for the Low Level Radioactive Waste Storage Project be allocated to the rate classes?

FPL: Capital costs for the Low Level Radioactive Waste Storage Project should be allocated to the rate classes on an average 12 CP demand and 1/13th energy basis. Operating and maintenance costs should be allocated to the rate classes on a 71% average 12 CP demand and 29% energy basis. (DUBIN)

15. Are the projected costs for FPL's Clean Air Interstate Rule (CAIR) and Clean Air Mercury Rule (CAMR) compliance projects that are reflected in FPL's March 30, 2007 supplemental filing reasonable and prudent?

FPL: Yes. FPL's supplemental filing explained that FPL has carefully evaluated its compliance options under CAIR and CAMR and determined that the projected activities and costs reflected in that filing represent the most cost-effective means of meeting FPL's compliance obligations. No party gave notice of objections to any of those projected activities or costs by the end of the second quarter of 2007 as they were required to do by the stipulation approved in Order No. PSC-06-0972-FOF-EI, Docket No. 060007-EI, dated November 22, 2006 (nor has FPL been notified of any such objection up to the date of this Preliminary List of Issues and Positions). Accordingly, the projected activities and costs reflected in the supplemental filing should be approved as reasonable and prudent.
