I. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY OF THE RATE CASE

On March 19, 2012, Florida Power & Light Company (“FPL”) filed a petition for a general rate proceeding with the Florida Public Service Commission (“FPSC” or “Commission”) pursuant to Chapter 366, Florida Statutes. FPL is seeking approval of (i) a permanent increase in rates and charges sufficient to generate additional total annual revenues of $516.5 million to be effective January 2, 2013 (the first billing cycle day of January 2013), (ii) a base rate step adjustment of $173.9 million for the new, more efficient generation facility currently under construction at Cape Canaveral (the “Canaveral Modernization Project”) to be effective when the plant goes into service (currently scheduled to be June 1, 2013), (iii) the opportunity to earn an 11.25% rate of return on the Company’s common equity capital (“return on equity” or “ROE”), and a 0.25% ROE performance adder, which FPL proposes would remain in effect only while it maintains the lowest typical residential customer bill (1,000 kWh) in the state, (iv) an equity ratio of 59.6% based on investor sources (46.0% based on all sources); (v) the transfer of cost recovery for West County Energy Center 3 from the Capacity Cost Recovery Clause to base rates; (vi) continuation of the existing framework for recovering prudently incurred storm costs, and (vii) the tariff sheets, rate schedules and other Company adjustments set forth in the Minimum Filing Requirements (MFRs) submitted with FPL’s petition.

FPL expects that the total proposed rate adjustment in this proceeding will increase the base portion of the bill for a typical residential customer using 1,000 kWh a month by $6.97, or about 23 cents per day. Due to fuel efficiency savings, lower fuel costs and other changes that will be reflected on customer bills, the total bill for a typical residential customer is projected to increase by a much smaller amount: $2.48 per month, or about 8 cents per day. To maintain the level of service and reliability that FPL's customers expect and deserve, FPL must continue investing in system reliability, fuel efficiency and cleaner energy.

FPL is currently operating pursuant to the Stipulation and Settlement approved by the Commission in 2010, which was based on a 2010 test year. The 2010 Rate Settlement addresses base rates through the end of 2012, and expires at the end of 2012. FPL proposes to adjust rates at the beginning of 2013, once the Rate Settlement expires. Therefore, FPL has used the projected period from January 1, 2013 through December 31, 2013 as the test year for calculating increased revenue requirements since 2010. The 2013 Test Year best represents expected future operations in the period immediately after the new base rates go into effect in January 2013 and will best match projected revenues with the projected cost of service and investment required for that period.

As described in the Company's testimony, FPL provides its residential customers with a typical 1,000 kWh bill that is the lowest of Florida's 55 electric utilities and 25% lower than the national average, while at the same time delivering excellent service and reliability. FPL is a leader in key industry categories such as reliability, low emissions and conservation. FPL's ability to deliver such superior value is the result of, among other things, FPL's long-term strategy of sustained investment in modern fuel-efficient technologies and its commitment to manage operating costs efficiently. For example, the addition of highly efficient generating units and improvements in the operating characteristics of FPL's existing generating fleet has resulted in a cumulative $5.5 billion reduction in fuel costs from 2001 through 2011, and every dollar of those savings has been passed on to customers.

Meanwhile, the costs of every day goods and services have risen considerably. According to the Consumer Price Index, the cumulative increase in inflation was 14.2% from 2006 to 2012, with some goods and services experiencing much sharper increases. FPL's focus on efficiency and productivity has lessened the impact of inflation, but the Company is not immune to it. Just like everyday goods, the costs of many products that the Company must purchase in order to provide affordable, reliable power have risen significantly and contribute to the need for rate relief.

Notwithstanding these rising costs, FPL must plan ahead and make sound investments in smarter, cleaner and efficient infrastructure to ensure that it can continue to deliver reliable and affordable energy now and in the future. From 2011 through 2013, FPL will have invested approximately $9 billion in infrastructure, or an average of approximately $3 billion annually. These investments provide operation and maintenance expense savings, increase system efficiency, provide fuel and emission savings, and enable the Company to maintain or improve system reliability.

In addition to the impact of inflation and investments in infrastructure, the other primary drivers of the change in FPL's January 2013 revenue requirements are: (i) a difference in the weighted cost of capital due to the proposed increase in the authorized return on equity partially offset by decreases in other elements; (ii) the cumulative impact of the accelerated depreciation surplus amortization required by the rate order issued by the Commission and effected through the 2010 Rate Settlement; (iii) system growth; and (4) increased expenditures required for regulatory compliance. Those increases are partially offset by productivity gains as well as projected revenue increases.

FPL also requests a base rate step adjustment of $173.9 million to be effective when the Canaveral Modernization Project goes into service in June 2013. This adjustment represents the revenue requirements associated with the first twelve months of the plant's operation. The Canaveral Modernization Project, for which the Commission unanimously granted an affirmative determination of need in 2008, is projected to save customers about $600 million over the life of the project due to reduced fuel costs and significantly reduced greenhouse gas emissions. The current estimated construction cost for the Canaveral Modernization Project is $976 million, which is $139 million lower than the estimate of $1.115 billion reflected in the Commission's order approving the need for the Project. Additionally, FPL will request that its 2013 fuel cost recovery factors be reduced as of June 1, 2013 to reflect the fuel savings resulting from the facility's highly efficient gas-fired combined cycle technology.

In return for the investment FPL makes to provide customers with reliable, clean and affordable electric service, shareholders must be provided with the opportunity to earn a reasonable and adequate return on their investment. The Supreme Court of the United States has determined that a reasonable and adequate return on investment is one which is commensurate with returns that would be earned on investments with corresponding risks and should be sufficient to assure confidence in the financial integrity of the enterprise, so as to maintain and attract capital. Absent rate relief, the Company projects that it would earn an ROE of 7.7% in 2013, which falls below the level needed to assure confidence in FPL's financial integrity.

Accordingly, FPL now requests the opportunity to earn a fair rate of return, and that rates be based on an ROE of 11.5%, which includes an ROE performance adder of 25 basis points. FPL proposes that it would continue to be allowed the opportunity to earn this adder so long as its typical residential bill remains the lowest in the state based on a comparison of FPL's typical bill to other Florida utilities on average over the prior 12 months. With the proposed ROE of 11.5%, the Company's overall cost of capital for the test year is 7.0%, which is relatively low. Customers benefit directly from this low cost of capital, which helps to maintain FPL's low typical bill.

FPL recognizes that no increase in price is ever welcomed. The Company has worked hard to minimize the required increase and expects that, even with the requested increase FPL's typical residential bill will remain the lowest in the state of Florida compared to the current rates of the other utilities and would still be well below the national average. Indeed, while the prices of groceries, healthcare and gasoline increased 20%, 24% and 41%, respectively, from 2006 to 2012, FPL's typical residential bill during that period decreased by 13%. FPL's proposal will support continued investment in improving fuel efficiency, generating cleaner energy and enhancing system reliability while keeping customer bills low and will provide FPL the opportunity to maintain a strong financial position, which directly benefits customers.

II. COMPARISON OF THE PRESENT AND PROPOSED RATES FOR CUSTOMER RATE CLASSES

Attached to this synopsis are MFR schedules A-3 for the test year, which provide a comparison of the present rates and proposed 2013 rates, as well as Canaveral Step Increase Schedules A-3, which provide a comparison of the rates for the proposed Canaveral Step Adjustment in June 2013.

III. ANTICIPATED MAJOR RATE CASE ISSUES

The issues listed below are those that are currently anticipated by the Company to be among the major areas considered:

1. What is FPL's rate base in the test year?
2. What are FPL's test year working capital amounts?
3. What is FPL's test year cost of capital?
4. What is FPL's test year net operating income?
5. What are FPL's test year revenue requirements?
6. What is the proper Return on Equity for the test year?
7. What is the proper revenue requirement adjustment for the Canaveral Modernization project?
8. Should the Commission award an ROE adder?

IV. DESCRIPTION OF THE RATEMAKING PROCESS

A. What parties are involved in the ratemaking process?

A particular utility's rate case can involve a number of different parties; however, the case always involves:

1. The FPSC Commissioners - The governing body of a utility rate case in Florida is the Florida Public Service Commission. The FPSC is made up of five Commissioners who are all appointed by the Governor. Those commissioners preside over the rate case, and all decisions on the issues raised in the case will be made based on the evidence presented.

2. The FPSC Staff - The Commission is supported by a staff of professionals, including engineers who conduct inspections of various premises and equipment, accountants who conduct audits of utilities' relevant accounts, rate and financial analysts, consumer affairs specialists who investigate complaints filed against the utility, and attorneys who assist with legal issues. The FPSC staff plays an integral role in assisting the Commission in processing a rate case.

3. The Office of Public Counsel - The citizens of Florida are represented in every major rate case by the Office of Public Counsel ("OPC"). The OPC is staffed by attorneys, accountants, and rate and financial analysts. The Public Counsel, who is appointed by the state legislature, may also bring in outside consultants who will testify as expert witnesses during a rate case. The OPC analyzes the information a utility files, and may also present testimony from expert witnesses and citizens of the state who would like to testify during the course of the rate case.

4. The Utility - As with any proceeding in front of the Commission, the utility itself plays a significant role in a rate case. Through the Officers and support staff, utilities provide critical information concerning operations, revenues, costs, and future economic forecasts. The utility may call witnesses to testify and may employ independent professionals to serve as expert witnesses.

5. The Intervenors - In a rate case, any party whose interests are substantially affected by the outcome of the case may file a petition with the FPSC to be an intervenor. As with any other party to a rate case, an intervenor may produce evidence, ask questions, and conduct direct and cross examinations of witnesses. Intervenors are most commonly customers or customer groups, including industrial or commercial organizations.

B. What is involved in the ratemaking process? What information is considered?

1. A rate case commences with the utility submitting a letter to the FPSC informing the Commission of its intention to request a rate increase, and subsequently supplying the "test year" and filing date information.

2. The utility next files a formal request for a rate increase. In accordance with Commission Rules, this request must include properly completed Minimum Filing Requirements ("MFRs"). In conjunction with the filing of direct testimony of its witnesses, a utility's MFRs provide all parties with information about the financial condition of the utility. The MFRs contain facts and figures about a utility's costs, investments, and operations for the specified test year. As required by law, it is up to the utility to prove that the requested rate increase is necessary.

3. Pursuant to Florida law, the new rates will go into effect within eight months of the utility's filing. If the Commission has not made its decision by that time, the new rates collected by the utility are held subject to refund, pending the Commission's final decision. The Commission must issue its final order on the request within 12 months of the "commencement" date, which is the date that the Commission determines that the Company's filing is complete. This period allows the Commission, along with FPSC Staff, the OPC, and any intervenor, time to compile all available information about the utility. Information requests may cover everything from what costs the utility incurs to how much it is charged in taxes. These requests may also ask for more information regarding a utility's construction expenditures, or other operating and financial matters. Meanwhile, the FPSC staff accountants will conduct an audit of the utility's accounts and records. During this time period, additional testimony may be filed by FPSC Staff or any party pursuant to the schedule adopted by the FPSC.

4. Before a utility can take any action concerning the rates it charges its customers, the matter must be presented to the Commission in hearing settings. These hearings are run in accordance with rules that are similar to those that courts employ. Information is presented through the use of testimony, and the witnesses are subsequently subject to cross-examination. When the final decision is reached, only information collected during the hearing may serve as a basis for this decision.

a. The first hearings in a rate case – called "service hearings" – commence not long after filing and are scheduled by the FPSC. These service hearings take place throughout a utility's service area and provide the utility's customers an opportunity to discuss their experiences with the utility. These experiences, positive or negative, provide a basis for future issues that the Commission may choose to investigate prior to the resolution of the rate case.

b. The next hearing is much more technical. This hearing affords the parties an opportunity to present witnesses and to cross-examine other parties' witnesses. The information collected from the witnesses at this hearing is more focused on the financial issues that are being decided and testimony is usually quite extensive. It is not uncommon for this hearing to continue for a number of days. As information about various costs or expenditures is presented, the Commission is charged with determining which costs are necessary and prudent. Those that are not deemed to be necessary and prudent are excluded from the utility's rate base and consequently not charged to the ratepayers.

c. Similar to what is done in court, the hearings are transcribed by a court reporter. The court reporters type out everything that is said during the hearings and create transcripts of the day's events. In large cases, these transcripts can total hundreds, if not thousands, of pages.

5. When the hearings are over, the parties must file legal briefs summarizing their legal positions and arguments. The FPSC staff then evaluates these briefs in light of the evidence received at the hearings and develops formal recommendations that the Commission considers as it makes its final decision. All information filed with the Commission is made available to the public in Tallahassee except for information determined to be proprietary confidential business information that is exempt from public disclosure. The utility's MFRs are made available to the public in the utility's offices located in Juno Beach and Miami and at the locations listed in Section VI, below.

6. A vote is scheduled to occur at a Special Agenda Conference in November 2012. The final decision is recorded on a vote sheet, which lists the numerous issues that require a decision to be made by the Commissioners. Reviewing the information can be quite time consuming, and in large cases, this process may require several days work.

7. The final step in a rate case is for the Commission to issue an order that embodies the final decision reached by the Commissioners. The order will state the background of the rate case, the decisions made, and the basis for those decisions. This order will also discuss any changes in the utility's rates and charges, and the dates that any new rates and charges are to take effect. Upon the issuance of the order, any party may request that the FPSC reconsider any particular decision. Following this reconsideration, a dissatisfied party may appeal to the appropriate court.
