PSC Docket No. 160021-EI

Re: Your letter of (undated)
Postmarked: May 13, 2016

Dear Mr. Henneforth,

I appreciate your polite letter which is above referenced, attempting to explain FP&L's petition for a sizable 24% rate increase, which you describe as needed for "continued investments in long-term infrastructure and advanced technology."

However, I didn't just fall off of the back end of a tomato truck.

Let me simply point out to you that "investments in long-term infrastructure and technology" are both "Capital Expenses" and not "O&M."

Accordingly, your future capital investment costs should be covered through either "Equity or Debt Financing" or in come combination with your stockholders and the bond markets -- and not through an immediate increase in monthly rate payer billing charges.

For your benefit, I have enclosed a copy of my LinkedIn bio; and I do appreciate your time in giving me the opportunity to respond to your plans with this feedback.

Sincerely,

Samuel Preston Adams

Experience

Sr. IT Portfolio Roadmap Consultant

Strategic Staffing Solutions
 November 2015 – Present (7 months) | Sarasota, Florida Area

- Under consulting contract as a Sr. PM within the PMO/ Strategic Solutions for Enterprise Portfolio Roadmap Planning in support of the corporate acquisition/merger between Tampa-based TECO Energy (NYSE: TE) and Emera (TSX:EMA) of Toronto, Canada.

- TECO Energy is one of the largest publicly held companies headquartered in the Tampa Bay, FL area; and TECO endeavors to optimize 2016-2017 IT Services performance planning and execution in preparation for closure of the $10.4 billion purchase/merger. Completion of the merger in June of 2016 will place the combined company within the top 20 energy producers in North America.

- Contracted work effort targets resource prioritization and utilization to improve SDLC project management productivity, and supports quality performance measures through the mapping of future projects to their strategic enterprise outcomes.

Sr. Supply-Chain Logistics IT Consultant

Independent IT Consultant
 August 2015 – October 2015 (3 months) | Sarasota, Florida Area

- Provided SAP manufacturing supply chain support to Tropicana Products, Inc. of Bradenton, FL, for the transportation of refrigerated natural orange juice and concentrated juices. Optimization of a combination of both Rail and OTR Truck distribution based on dynamic weekly demand forecasts enabled a savings of over $40 million during 2015.
