Subject: Gulf Power Rate Increase

To Whom It May Concern:

I live in Panama City, Florida. My husband and I recently lost our business, and we just can't afford power bills to keep rising. Is Gulf Power really losing money?

My sister lives here, she works for the State of Florida and has for the last 22 years, and her salary has actually decreased over the last several years. She struggles monthly to make ends meet.

My parents are both on social security, and are falling behind on their bills already, just to be able to eat every month. Will they be able to pay a higher electric bill. I think not.

This affects thousands of people, and they usually get their increases automatically. When is the last time Gulf Power was turned down for a rate increase? What is their bottom line? We all have to have them, but does it do any good, if more people start falling into a collections category?...

Please consider this carefully.

Thank you,

31 year user of Gulf Power,

Dana Dunnigan
