Dear Clerk Florida PSC Clerk,

Chairman, Commissioners,

This is a question of proper business. Anyone generating an excess of electrical power should be paid the appropriate rate at the time it was produced. Sadly, that true business incentive is not required by law. Net metering at least allows the citizen the freedom of choice to supply power for themselves and, at least, be able to calculate a payback period based on their previous consumption. It seems to be working reasonably well and should not be changed.

Sincerely,
Carl Boyette
