CUSTOMER COMMENTS

The stated rate increase dollar amounts seem extraordinarily high when compared to the rate-per-month we are already paying. To pay almost $20.00 extra per-month for the average home represents a 25-30% increase from our average monthly bill which is typically $66-72. I respect any company trying to offset the costs of increased construction, maintenance etc., but if the utility is that far off (and they've been serving this area for decades), then they have not been good stewards of our system or their finances. I would suggest a fraction of the requested increase is probably suitable
