Details:

FPL is having a LARGE rate increase in 2023 to cover the jump in natural gas costs... which is understandable. Yet, one year ago natural gas was just under $4 per unit and NOW natural gas is just above $4 per unit. The increase is to cover the rising cost of natural gas but will the increase be removed now that the prices are dropping back to the range that it was a year ago? ... or... are we STUCK with this high price as the "new normal"?
