Details:

I will keep it simple - I strongly disagree with teco raising our rates in any way due to storm damages , Why should I and the other customers finance or subsidize the money teco spent to repair storm damages? This is unfair and abusive ! Many people are still struggling to get their home damages repaired still at huge costs financially and personally, nobody subsidized the repairs required on my home ? Teco should be required to have funds set aside to deal with these type situations . Maybe just maybe the teco executives should take a pay cut for a temporary time period instead of just increasing its customers rates to make them whole ? Maybe they take a loan , why do they get special abilities when John q citizen does not ? Their rates are already high enough ! Why should we finance their storm related short falls when we did not cause them ! Not to mention the fact that we all had to deal with loss of power for many many days , we stuck it out , did we ask for anything ? No - teco should not be allowed to just raise our rates when storms of any size occur , where do they think they operate ? Be prepared in every way before the storms hit . Unbelievable !!!

As self employed small business owner in tampa Bay Area we had to deal with loss of revenue and many many adverse situations , I would not even think about punishing my clients for that ! It is exemplary of the problems with big business these days and it is wrong !!! Thank you
