

THE FLORIDA CHANNEL'S:
"Excellent EV Adventure" Documentary

As electric vehicles (EVs) continue to gain popularity, consumers question whether they're a sustainable alternative to gas-powered cars. The biggest concern for potential buyers is the range of EVs. In 2021, Chairman Andrew Fay, hoping to relieve some of this "range anxiety," decided to put Florida's EV charging stations to the test. From big cities to remote state and national parks, Fay embarked on a statewide journey from one charging station to the next while sleeping in the back of his Tesla. While some miles were more calculated than others, Fay successfully made it across Florida and back using EV charging stations. Learn more about the history of EVs as Chairman Fay treks across the state in The Florida Channel's "Excellent EV Adventure" documentary.
